It is difficult to speak about Jeremiah without comparing him to Isaiah. It might be wrong to center everything on the differences between their reactions to God’s call, namely, Isaiah’s enthusiasm (Is 6:8) as opposed to Jeremiah’s fear (Jer 1:6). It might have been only a question of their different temperaments. Their respective vocation and mission should be complementary, both in terms of what refers to their lives and writings and to the influence that both of them were going to exercise among believers.

Isaiah is the prophecy while Jeremiah is the prophet. The two faces of prophet-ism complement each other and they are both equally necessary to reorient history. Isaiah represents the message to which people will always need to refer in order to reaffirm their faith. Jeremiah is the ever present example of the suffering of human beings when God bursts into their lives.

There is no room, therefore, for a sentimental view of a young, peaceful and defenseless Jeremiah who suffered in silence from the wickedness of his persecutors. There were hints of violence in the prophet (11:20-23). In spite of the fact that he passed into history because of his own sufferings, Jeremiah was not always the victim of the calamities that he had announced.

In his first announcement, Jeremiah said that God had given him authority to uproot and to destroy, to build and to plant, specifying that the mission that had been entrusted to him encompassed not only his small country but “the nations.” The magnitude to such a task assigned to a man without credentials might surprise us; yet it is where the finger of God does appear. Starting with the ruin of the kingdom of Judah, followed by the Exile, until we come to the time of the Gospel, God is going to reveal his way of saving the world, his strength that is manifested in weakness and the victory of Love. All of these always presuppose the acceptance of suffering.

Not without reason did the Jews of later times believe that after he had died, Jeremiah was present before God interceding for them (2 Mac 2:1; 14:14). However, that intercession was not what mattered most; and “second Isaiah” would infer it: we are going to find some echoes of Jeremiah in the poems of the Servant of Yahweh (49:1; 50:4; 52:13).

Jeremiah’s Preaching

Jeremiah’s first prophecies have their roots in the discourse of the Book of Deuteronomy (2 K 23; Jer 11). Deuteronomy emphasizes the Covenant made between God and Israel, a Covenant that had made Israel into a people set apart and endowed with their own wisdom. Yahweh is a personal God who wants to be served and loved.

Jeremiah came on the scene at the time when Israel was taking refuge in the infallible protection that their God and their temple insured. Jeremiah was persecuted because he denied that God should be identified with a temple of stone (Jer 7 and 26) just as it would occur with Jesus and his apostles (MK 14:58, Acts 6:13). Jeremiah does not want any God other than the one who is discovered in truth. His preaching (and that of Deuteronomy) is no longer the same as the preaching of Joshua and the Judges, that is to say, “you will possess the land if you obey and you will lose it if you disobey” or “everything is going wrong because you are not following the law….” Jeremiah is asking people to convert to wisdom (Jer 9:22; 10) and he is speaking of a return to fidelity that means, first and foremost, a change of heart (Jer 17:5).

The announcement of the new Covenant that is the culmination of Jeremiah’s message (Jer 31:31), is the logical consequence of the chapters that deal only with death and ruin. It was necessary for all the vestiges of a life in which God was absent to disappear so that the people, or better yet, the hearts would open up to another dimension of human existence. After the ruin of the kingdom of Israel, the people of God would enter into a new era.

We cannot understand the promises of happiness that form part of Jeremiah’s prophecy (Jer 29:31) without this interior transformation. Jeremiah did not let himself be carried away by Ezekiel’s imagination to rebuild an ideal Palestine with a purified temple. The logical consequence of the promises to Jeremiah does not mean Ezra’s efforts to publish the law and to organize Judaism but it is simply the Gospel.

Historical Data

Jeremiah received his call in the year 626 B.C. He was from a family of priests of Anathoth, close to Jerusalem. A few years later, the discovery of the law brought about a religious renewal (2 K 22:1). During Jeremiah’s ministry, that lasted almost forty years, (we should situate the prophet’s death around the year 586 B.C.), changes took place at an impressive pace: Josiah’s religious reform, as well as the national rebirth that accompanied it (the years 622–609 B.C.). Then, three wars took place: one against Egypt in the year 609 B.C., one against Babylon in the year 597 B.C. and the year 587, followed by three waves of deportations (the years 597 587 and 582 B.C.).

THE BOOK OF JEREMIAH

In the year 604 B.C., Jeremiah dictated part of his preaching to Baruch who was both the “secretary” of the king and the secretary of Jeremiah. These prophecies are most probably found in Chapters 1-20. There must have been another document relating Jeremiah’s sufferings: Chapters 26-44. Yet another document must have dealt with prophecies against the nations (Chapters 46-51). Other collections, referring to the kings (21-23), the prophecies (23:9-40) or to the new Covenant (30-33) were added.

CONCLUSION: THE END OF THE KINGDOM OF JUDAH (52:1-34)
1 These are the words of Jeremiah, son of Hilkiah, one of the priests at Anathoth in the territory of Benjamin. 2 The word of Yahweh came to him in the thirteenth year of the reign of Josiah, son of Amon, king of Judah. 3 It came again during the reign of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah, until the eleventh year of Zedekiah, son of Josiah, king of Judah. In the fifth month of that year, the inhabitants of Jerusalem were taken into exile.

The call of Jeremiah

4 A word of Yahweh came to me, 5 “Even before I formed you in the womb I have known you; even before you were born I had set you apart, and appointed you a prophet to the nations!”

6 I said, “Ah, Lord Yahweh! I do not know how to speak; I am still young!”

7 But Yahweh replied, “Do not say; ‘I am still young’, for now you will go, whatever be the mission I am entrusting to you, and you will speak of whatever I command you to say. 8 Do not be afraid of them, for I will be with you to protect you—it is Yahweh who speaks!”

9 Then Yahweh stretched out his hand and touched my mouth and said to me, “Now I have put my words in your mouth. 10 See! Today I give you authority over nations and over kingdoms to uproot and to pull down, to destroy and to overthrow, to build and to plant.”

11 A word of Yahweh came to me again, “Jeremiah what do you see?” I said, “I see the branch of a watching tree.” 12 And Yahweh said to me, “You are right. I too am watching to fulfill my word.” 13 The word of Yahweh came to me a second time, “What do you see?” I replied, “I see a boiling caldron coming from the north and it is tilted towards this direction.” Then Yahweh said to me,

14 “From the north disaster will boil down on all the people of this land. 15 I am calling all the kingdoms of the north—it is Yahweh who speaks. Each

• 1.4 Jeremiah says little about his vocation. We have no flashing revelation from God. The two visions—the branch of the watching-tree (the almond tree) and the boiling caldron—seem quite ordinary for such a transcendental mission. This helps us understand that God’s call was first of all something interior.

I have put my words in your mouth (v. 9). Jeremiah is made a prophet: from now on, he will proclaim the word of God. That does not mean that God will always tell him what he must announce, rather, since he now thinks and feels like the Lord, he will be able to comment on every word of God given to him.

You will go whatever be the mission I am entrusting to you (v. 7). From now on, Jeremiah will be guided by the power of the Spirit; he will obey, whatever the risks and in spite of the resistance of his timid nature. Be not scared of them or I will scare you in their presence (v. 17)! This is an amazing revelation of the demanding love of Yahweh. He has decided to make this lad his chosen one and forces him to overcome and forget his human weakness.

I am with you to rescue you (v. 19). Yahweh repeats what he said to Moses when he called him (Ex 3:12) and what he will also say to Paul (Acts 26:17). Moreover, Jeremiah is assured that the Lord destined him for this mission, of which he had never thought, and which frightens him: Even before I formed you in the womb I have known you; even before you were born I had set you apart (v. 5). Later, the same will be said of John the Baptist (Lk 1:15), of Christ (see Is 49) and of Paul (Gal 1:15).

These words spoken to Jeremiah are, somehow, also meant for us: we are not the product of chance. In Ephesians 1, Paul praises this foreknowledge of God who called us from eternity to know Christ and to have a share in the divine riches. But what is said to Jeremiah urges us to reflect that God, in his eternal designs, clearly sees—next to Christ—those who are given a more transcendental mission. It would be difficult for them to escape God’s irresistible call.

God seems to force Jeremiah’s freedom, but that is but an impression of ours because we have not experienced the real freedom, and words rarely fully express reality.

I give you authority over the nations; to uproot and to destroy (v. 10). From now on, Jeremiah will carry Yahweh’s creative word. In the first years, this word seems rather destructive. Jeremiah knows that when he pronounces a condemnation, he expresses God’s judgment which will shortly take place.

Jeremiah’s mission, to uproot and to destroy; to build and to plant will be the mission of any of them will come and encamp at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem; against all its surrounding walls and against all the cities of Judah.

16 I will pass judgment on my people because of the evil they do in forsaking me; they have burned incense to foreign gods and worshiped gods their hands have made.

17 But you, get ready for action; stand up and say to them all that I command you. Be not scared of them or I will scare you in their presence!

18 See, I will make you a fortified city, a pillar of iron with walls of bronze, against all the nations, against the kings and princes of Judah, against the priests and the people of the land.

19 They will fight against you but shall not overcome you, for I am with you to rescue you—it is Yahweh who speaks.”

The infidelities of Israel

• 1 A word of Yahweh came to me, in the hearing of Jerusalem. This is Yahweh’s word:

I remember your kindness as a youth, the love of your bridal days, when you followed me in the wilderness, through a land not sown.

3 Israel was holy to Yahweh, the first fruits of his harvest. All who ate of it had to pay and misfortune fell on them—it is Yahweh who speaks.

4 Hear the word of Yahweh, people of Jacob, all you families of the nation of Israel.

5 What wrong did your fathers find in me that they strayed far from me? Why did they pursue what is worthless and become worthless themselves?

worker in the Lord’s vineyard. There can be no compromise between a semblance of Christian life and authentic faith; the genuine apostle must destroy in order to build.

• 2.1 Chapters 2–6 except for 3:6-18 contain Jeremiah’s preaching in the first years following his call. After the godless kings Manasseh and Amon, there was very little concern for religion; Jeremiah daringly opposes general indifference. His language resembles that of Hosea who, a century before, had spoken in similar circumstances in the northern kingdom. For the Israelites, Yahweh is God, or a god, but not someone who lives close to them. For Jeremiah he is both Father and Husband.

I remember your kindness as a youth (v. 2). You will note the longing for the time of the desert, the days of Moses, when the people were wandering and poor, but trusted in Yahweh who helped them. As they built their houses, planted their vineyards and had children, the Israelites became rich and forgot their benefactor: “No one can serve two masters.” Yahweh appears as the jealous husband: those people, so easily satisfied, had not yet discovered God’s passionate love.

My people have exchanged their glory for what is worthless (v. 11). Jeremiah is thinking about his contemporaries who are unable to discover the invisible God and who feel secure with their painted gods and predictions which chase after all that is flashy and new.

They have forsaken me, the fountain of living water (v. 13). Abandoning God had taken three forms:
6 And they did not say: ‘Where is Yahweh who brought us out of Egypt and led us in the wilderness, through a land of deserts and pits, a land of drought and darkness, a land still untrodden and without inhabitants?’

7 I brought you to a fertile land to eat of the choicest fruit. As soon as you came you defiled my land and dishonored my heritage!

8 The priests did not ask, ‘Where is Yahweh?’ The masters of my teaching did not know me; the pastors of my people betrayed me; the prophets followed worthless idols and spoke in the name of Baal.

9 Therefore I contend with you—it is Yahweh who speaks—and I will contend with your children’s children!

10 Cross to the coasts of Cyprus and see, or send to Kedar and observe with care if there has ever been such a thing!

11 Has a nation exchanged its gods, false though they be? But my people have exchanged their glory for what is worthless!

12 Be aghast at that, O heavens! Shudder, be utterly appalled—it is Yahweh who speaks—

13 for my people have done two evils: they have forsaken me, the fountain of living water, to dig for themselves leaking cisterns that hold no water!

14 Did I make Israel a slave or was he born in bondage?

— Their leaders stopped seeking the will of God. The three categories of authority in Judah are named: priests, shepherds (governors) and prophets.

— They restored the worship of false gods, to whom they offered sacrifices and vows.

— They formed alliances with powerful nations like Assyria and Egypt with the idea of guaranteeing their own security, but without seeing that such alliances were making them just like other people. Their vocation was to keep their faith in Yahweh, knowing that he would never abandon them if they carried out justice among the people.

See also the commentary on Isaiah 30:22, Know and see that it is bitter and evil to forsake Yahweh, your God (v. 19). Maybe Jeremiah and the prophets sometimes had an overly simplistic vision of the justice of God in this world. We know that prosperity or misfortune are not the sure proof that we are leading good or evil lives. Nevertheless, those who meditate on their lives and on history do verify Jeremiah’s words: sin always brings its punishment.

The blood of the innocents (v. 34). In many parts of the Scriptures we find reference to children sacrificed to the idols.
How then did you become the spoil of others?

15 The lions have roared against you, loudly indeed have they roared, making your country a wasteland, your cities a ruins without inhabitants.

16 Even the Egyptians of Memphis and Tahpanhes have humbled you!

17 Didn’t you bring this on yourself by forsaking Yahweh, your God, even as he led you in the way?

18 Now why call to Egypt? Will the water of the Nile heal you? And why go to Assyria? What good will the water of the Euphrates do you?

19 Your own wickedness chastises you and your own unfaithfulness punishes you! Know, and see that it is bitter and evil to forsake Yahweh your God and no longer to fear me—it is Yahweh, the God of Hosts, who speaks!

20 It was long ago that you broke your yoke and burst your bonds, saying: ‘I will not serve!’ On every high hill and under every green tree you played the harlot!

21 I planted you a choice vine, a shoot of wholesome stock; why have you become degenerate, a wild vine?

22 Even if you wash with soda and use soap in abundance, the stain of your sin is always before me—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks.

23 How do you dare say: ‘I am not defiled, I have not gone after the Baals?’ See your footprints in the valley, admit what you have done, O restless young she-camel, running here and there.

24 Wild ass of the desert, sniffing the wind in her desire, who can restrain her lust? Those who pursue her, need not tire themselves, at mating time they will find her.

25 Run if you wish, until your feet are sore, and your throat is dry! But you say: ‘It’s no use, I love foreign gods, it is them I follow.’
The crimes of Jerusalem

As a thief is shamed when caught, so is the house of Israel, they, their kings, their princes, their priests and their prophets! To a tree they say: ‘You are my father!’ and to a stone: ‘You gave me birth!’ For they have turned their back on me instead of their face!

In the day of misfortune they will call me: ‘Rise and save us!’ Where, then, are the gods of your own making?

Let them rise and save you if they can, in the time of your distress. For your gods, O Judah, are as many as your cities!

Why argue with me? You have all betrayed me—it is Yahweh who speaks.

In vain did I strike your children. They did not learn a lesson! And your sword, like a destroying lion devoured your prophets!

All you of this generation, hear what Yahweh says:

Have I been a desert for Israel, a land of darkness? Why do my people say: ‘We will depart from you and no more return to you’?

Does a virgin forget her ornaments, or a bride her sash? But my people have forgotten me for days without number!

How well you direct your steps in your search for lovers, even to walking along with crime!

Look at your garments stained with the blood of the innocent poor, although you did not catch them breaking in!

I know you say: ‘I am innocent. Why does his anger not turn away from me?’

I will accuse you: Yes, you have sinned! How lightly do you change your way! You will be put to shame by Egypt as you were by Assyria.

You will also leave that place with your hands on your head, for Yahweh has rejected those you trust, and they will not help you!

Are you really returning to me?

1 If a man divorces his wife and she leaves him and marries another man, should he come back to her? Wouldn’t the land be totally polluted? But you, you are a harlot with many lovers, and you still have the nerve to return to me?—it is Yahweh who speaks.

Lift your eyes to the hills and see: Where have you not been violated? By the wayside you sat waiting for your lovers, like an Arab in the wilderness, and you have dishonored the land with your evil and your harlotry!

The showers held back and there was no spring rain for you, yet you have a harlot’s brow and refuse to be ashamed! Worse still you called to me: ‘Father, guide of my youth!’ Will you always be angry? Will your wrath last forever?’ That is what you said, and did evil as much as you were able to.”

Comparison of the two sisters

During the reign of king Josiah, Yahweh said to me, “Have you seen what faithless Israel has done? She has gone on every high hill and under every green tree and there played the harlot! Does a virgin forget her ornaments, or a bride her sash? But my people have forgotten me for days without number!

How well you direct your steps in your search for lovers, even to walking along with crime!

Look at your garments stained with the blood of the innocent poor, although you did not catch them breaking in!

• 3.1 This is the beginning of the poem which will continue in 3:19–4:2.

If a man divorces his wife. We cannot understand sin if we have not known love. Jeremiah declares that this hard-hearted people, “the bride” of Yahweh has behaved like a prostitute. An adulterous woman who abandoned her husband and sacrificed her children to go after other men.

Contrary to what usually happens, the abandoned husband looks for the guilty woman. Judah does not deserve Yahweh’s return and people cannot complain when misfortunes befall them. Yet, Yahweh’s love urges him to look for these unfaithful people.

• 6. This part begun in 3:1 is interrupted by two paragraphs.

Verses 6-13. These verses were written when Josiah recaptured part of the northern kingdom (kingdom of Israel). See the commentary on 2 Kings 23:15. Even after so many threats, the hope of conversion is never lost.

Verses 14-18. These words were probably proclaimed by Jeremiah after the destruction of
In fact, these threats of punishment had to be completely carried out before God would offer new hope.

Jerusalem in the year 587 B.C. and they contain promises of restoration. They were inserted here in the book to tone down the pessimistic impression caused by so many condemnations.
“Assemble and go to the fortified cities! Run for your lives, do not tarry, for I will bring evil and great destruction from the north.

The lion has come out of his den; the destroyer of nations has set out to devastate your country and make your cities ruins without inhabitants!

Because of this, wrap yourselves in sackcloth; lament and groan, for the fury of Yahweh’s anger has not turned away from us.

On that day—it is Yahweh who speaks—the king and the leaders will be discouraged, the priests will be terrified and the prophets will be astounded. People will say, “Ah! Lord Yahweh, you have truly deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying: ‘You will have peace’ even as the sword is at our throat.”

When the time comes it will be said to the people of Jerusalem:

“Wearing wind from the desert heights is coming to the daughter of my people, neither to winnow nor to cleanse!

A strong wind comes from there. Now I will declare my judgments against them.”

See! Someone comes like the clouds, his chariots are like a whirlwind, his horses swifter than eagles! Woe to us for we are ruined!

Cleanse your heart of every evil, Jerusalem, that you may be saved! How long will you harbor evil plans within you?

A voice from Dan declares of a coming disaster from Mount Ephraim! “Warn the nations. Let everyone know in Jerusalem and Judah that enemies are coming from a distant land.” They encircle Jerusalem like watchers guarding a field, because she has rebelled against me—it is Yahweh who speaks.

“Your own conduct and actions have brought this upon you. How bitter is your punishment and how it deeply penetrates your heart because you have rebelled against me!”

Barren soil

I am in anguish! I tremble in the depths of my being; my heart beats wildly. I cannot remain silent for I hear the sound of the trumpet and the clamor of war!

Disaster after disaster; all the land is laid waste; my tents are suddenly destroyed and in an instant all that shelters me is wiped out. For how long must I see the banner raised and hear the sound of the trumpet?

“This happens because my people are foolish and do not know me. They are senseless and have no understanding,—wise in doing evil but stupid in doing good!”

I looked at the earth and I found it formless and void; I looked at the sky but darkness engulfed it.

I looked at the mountains and they were quaking, and all the hills were swaying to and fro.

I looked and saw that the fruitful land was a desert and that all the cities were in ruins because of Yahweh and his fierce anger.

Yahweh says, “The whole land may be desolate but I will not totally destroy it! Because of this the earth shall mourn and the skies be darkened: I have declared my purpose and will not relent; I have made up my mind and will not change it.”

At the sound of the horsemen and archers, every town takes flight; some go to the thickets and climb among the rocks. All the towns are deserted and no one is left.

And you, desolate one, what will you do? Even if you are garbed in scarlet and wear jewels of gold and put make-up on your eyes, in vain do you beautify yourself, for your lovers despise you and are ready to take your life.

I hear a cry as of a woman in labor, anguish as of one giving birth the first time.
It is the cry of the daughter of Zion, gasping for breath with hands outstretched: "Woe is me! I am fainting amidst a band of murderers!"

Not one is upright

5:1 "Go through the streets of Jerusalem; observe carefully and take note. Search the entire city squares and find, if you can, even one man who acts justly and seeks the truth, that I may forgive this city." 2 Even though they swear, "As surely as Yahweh lives" they do not mean what they say.

3 Yahweh, are you not looking for truth? You struck them but they did not feel it; you crushed them but they rejected correction. They set their faces harder than a rock and refused to repent.

4 Then I thought: "Such are the poor, they act foolishly because they do not know the way of Yahweh, the law of their God! So I will go to the well-to-do and speak to them for they know the way of Yahweh and the law of their God." But they, too, have broken their yoke and burst their bonds!

6 That is why the lion from the forest will slay them and the wolf from the desert will destroy them, while the leopard lurks around their cities. Anyone who comes out is torn to pieces, for great is their sin and many are their desertions!

7 Why should I pardon you? Your children have rejected me and sworn by false gods. I gave them all they needed and yet they committed adultery and trooped to the harlot's house. They are well-fed, lusty stallions, each one neighing for his neighbor's wife.

8 Shall I not call them to account—it is Yahweh who speaks—shall I not take vengeance against a nation like this?

9 Go up, nations, through her vineyards and ravage them, but do not entirely destroy my vine. Cut off her branches for they are not Yahweh's. 11 For the people of Israel and Judah have been utterly unfaithful to me—it is Yahweh who speaks.

12 They have spoken falsely of Yahweh, saying, "He does not exist; no harm will happen to us; we shall see neither the sword nor famine! 13 As for the prophets, they are but wind. God doesn't speak to them."

14 Because of this, Yahweh the God of Hosts has spoken, "This is what I am going to do to them: I will put words in your mouth. They will be like a fire, and this people will be the wood it devours."

15 People of Israel! I will bring against you a nation from far away to attack you. It will be a nation that was founded long ago and has lasted for a long time. It will be a nation whose language you will not know. Its people will speak words that you will not be able to understand.

16 All of its soldiers are strong and mighty. Their arrows will send you to your grave.

17 They will devour your harvest and your food, devour your sons and daughters, devour your flocks and herds, devour your vines and your fig trees.

They will devastate with the sword the fortified cities in which you trust.

18 But even in those days—it is Yahweh who speaks—I will not utterly destroy them. 19 And when they ask, "Why has Yahweh our God done all this to us?" you shall say to them, "Just as you have forsaken me and served foreign gods in your land, so shall you serve strangers in a land that is not your own."

20 Declare this to the people of Jacob and make it known in Judah, 21 listen, stupid and senseless people! who have eyes and do not see, who have ears and do not hear! 22 Do you not fear me?—it is Yahweh who speaks—Will you not tremble before me?

I set the sand as a limit to the sea, an everlasting barrier it may never pass; its waves toss but cannot prevail; they roar but are unable to go beyond it.

5.1 This passage referring to an invasion from the north was begun in Chapter 4. Search the entire city squares and find, if you can, even one man who acts justly and seeks the truth. Yahweh would forgive everything for the sake of one "just person," just as we saw in Genesis 18. The search is in vain, and Jeremiah also looks in vain for someone who would understand. After so many invasions this one sounds the alarm announcing the final destruction. This is how people and nations remain deaf until they perish. In the New Testament, John the Baptist and then Jesus and his apostles try to arouse their compatriots and they issue the same call: be converted because the tragedy—the judgment—is at hand.
Jeremiah’s threats

8 Take warning, Jerusalem, lest I turn away from you and make you a desolations, a no-man’s land.”

Yahweh of Hosts further said, “You shall glean thoroughly as a vine, what is left of Israel. You shall do what the grape-gatherer does when his hand goes over the branches again.”

10 To whom shall I speak, whom shall I warn? Not one of them wants to listen, that they may understand. Their ears are stuffed and they pay no attention. They scorn what Yahweh says and refuse to listen.

11 The anger of Yahweh has filled me and I can bear it no longer!

“Then pour it out on the children in the street and on the gathering of young men; both husband and wife will be caught, both the elderly and those who are not of age.

12 Their houses will be passed to others, together with their fields and their wives, when I stretch out my hand and strike the people of the land—it is Yahweh who speaks.

13 All of them—from the least to the greatest—are greedy for gain; prophet and priest alike are deceitful.

14 They treat lightly the disaster of my people saying, “Peace, peace,” when there is no peace.

15 They should be ashamed of their abominable deeds. But they have no shame and don’t even know how to blush. Surely they shall fall with those who will fall; when I ask them to account they will stumble—it is Yahweh who speaks.

16 This is what Yahweh says, “Stand in the roads and look. Ask for the ancient paths and know where the good way is. Walk on it and experience peace for yourselves.” But you said, “We will not take it.”

17 Then Yahweh set watchmen over you: “Pay attention to the sound of the horn!” But you said, “We will not listen.”

18 Listen nations; know what will befall you! 19 Listen earth! I am bringing disaster on this people! It is the fruit of their rebellion, because they ignored my words and despised my law.

20 The incense from Sheba is useless for me, don’t bring me the fragrant cane from a distant land. Your burnt offerings are not acceptable to me nor do I find your sacrifices pleasing.”

21 This is what Yahweh says, “I will place
It is Yahweh who speaks, “See, a people comes from the north, a powerful nation from the ends of the earth. Armed with bow and spear they are cruel and merciless. Their voice roars like the roaring sea. Mounted on horses, in battle formation they come as a fire, against you, daughter of Zion.”

When we heard this, our hands went limp, anguish seized us like the birth pangs of a woman. “Let us not go to the fields or onto the roads, for the enemy’s sword brings terror on every side.”

O my people! Wrap yourself in sackcloth and roll in ashes; mourn with bitter lament as for an only child, for the destroyer is coming against us.

“I have appointed you as an examiner among my people, that you may see and appreciate their ways.”

They are all rebels and slanderers. They are like bronze and iron and all are corrupt. The bellows blow to burn away the lead with fire, but the smelter works in vain for the evil elements remain. They will be called “worthless silver,” for Yahweh has rejected them.

I can destroy this temple

These words were spoken by Yahweh, to Jeremiah, “Stand at the gate of Yahweh’s house and proclaim this in a loud voice: Listen to what Yahweh says, all you people of Judah (who enter these gates to worship Yahweh). Yahweh the God of Israel says this:

Amend your ways and your deeds and I will stay with you in this place. Rely not on empty words such as: ‘Look, temple of Yahweh! Temple of Yahweh! This is the temple of Yahweh!’

It is far better for you to amend your ways and act justly with all. Do not abuse the stranger, orphan or widow or shed innocent blood in this place or follow false gods to your own ruin. Then I will stay with you in this place, in the land I gave to your ancestors in times past and forever.

But you trust in deceptive and useless words. You steal, kill, take the wife of your neighbor; you swear falsely, worship Baal and follow foreign gods who are not yours. Then, after doing all these horrible things, you come and stand before me in this temple that bears my name and say, ‘Now we are safe.’

Is this house on which rests my name a den of thieves? I have seen this myself—it is Yahweh who speaks. ‘Now we are safe.’

Go to the Sanctuary at Shiloh in

For four centuries Yahweh protected Jerusalem. The Jews were convinced that there was a blessing for them and for the temple, the dwelling place of Yahweh, where he was present, and from where he blessed his people.

Temple of Yahweh, temple of Yahweh! (v. 4). They come there and, confident in Yahweh’s gifts, they think that they do not need to change their lives. It is true that Yahweh ordered the sacrifices, but can people be reconciled to Yahweh at the cost of a sacrificed animal? What is the value of these rituals if there is no change in behavior?

What I did in Shiloh, I will likewise do to this temple (v. 14). God has successively destroyed the sacred objects and the institutions he gave his people. People always replace God with means that lead to God, or with holy objects, or with persons who represent God. We are forever fleeing from a personal encounter whether it be with God or neighbor, because it makes us afraid and we take refuge in the bazaar of religion.

All that God gives is for a time in order to make us cross into another stage: God gave kings and then suppressed them, he demanded sacrifices and then he destroyed the temple when he gave us the Son “in whom dwells the fullness of God.” He gave the Law, and later showed how ineffective it was. He gave priests and then replaced them with Christ.

Here Jeremiah speaks of the temple. In 3:16 he also speaks of the Ark of the Covenant: they will no longer exist in the time of the New Covenant. In 4:4, Jeremiah mentions circumcision: it will no longer serve in a world of truth: Romans 2:25-30.

Following this text, we have three more texts, dealing with worship:

- the people of God are reprimanded for worshiping Yahweh and other gods at the same time;
- they perform rituals but are not concerned
Israel, where I first let my name rest, and see what I did to that place because of the wickedness of my people Israel. 13 You have done all this and have not listened when I repeatedly warned you; neither have you answered when I called you. 14 What I did in Shiloh, I will likewise do to this temple on which rests my name, this sacred place in which you trust and which I have given to you and to your ancestors. 15 As for you, I will drive you out of my sight, just as I cast away all your kinsfolk in the north, the entire race of Ephraim.

Do not plead for this people. Make no prayer or supplication for them; do not press me on their behalf because I will not listen to you.

17 Don’t you see what they do in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem?

The children gather wood and the fathers light the fire. The women knead dough to make cakes for the Queen of Heaven and pour out drink offerings for foreign gods. 19 They do this to belittle me. But is it me they belittle? asks Yahweh. No, they belittle themselves to their own confusion.

20 Because of this Yahweh has spoken, ‘The fury of my anger will be poured out on this place, both on man and beast, on the trees in the fields and on the produce of the earth; it will burn and not be extinguished.’"

True religion

• 21 This is what Yahweh of Hosts, says to you, “Add your burnt offerings to your sacrifices and eat the flesh. 22 When I brought your ancestors out of Egypt I did not give them mandate regarding sacrifices and burnt offerings. 23 One thing I did command them: Listen to my voice and I will be your God and you will be my people. Walk in the way I command you and all will be well with you. 24 But they did not listen and paid no attention. They followed the bad habits of their stubborn heart and turned away from me.

25 From the time I brought their ancestors out of Egypt until this day I have continually sent them my servants, the prophets; 26 but this stiff-necked people did not listen. They paid no attention and were worse than their ancestors.

27 You may say all these things to them but they will not listen. You will call them but they will not answer. 28 This is a nation that did not obey Yahweh and refused to be disciplined. Truth has perished and is no longer heard from their lips.

29 Cut off your hair and throw it away. Intone a lament on the bare heights, for Yahweh has rejected and forsaken these people.” This is Yahweh’s word.

30 The people of Judah have done what disgusts me. They have placed their idols in the Sanctuary that houses my name and defiled it. 31 They have built the temple of Topheth in the valley of Hinnom where they burn their sons and daughters, something I never commanded or even thought of.

32 Hence the time will come when it will no longer be called Topheth or the valley of Hinnom, but rather the valley of Slaughter, for they will bury the dead in Topheth for lack of space elsewhere. 33 And the corpses of this people will be eaten by birds and animals; and none will scare them away.

34 In the cities of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem I will bring to an end all expressions of joy and happiness, the songs of the bride and bridegroom, for the land will become a wilderness.

8 1 When that time comes—it is Yahweh who speaks—they will bring from (2 K 22). The chosen people will have peace if they listen to the word of their God. In the same way we also must go beyond our religious practices and listen to the Lord.

• 8.1 These three chapters combine several of Jeremiah’s oracles which were delivered in the days of king Jehoiakim.

Our Scripture did not yet exist in those days.
ruptured: it was no longer possible to know the meaning of the events which the nation was experiencing. In verses 10-12 we have a repetition of what was said in 6:12-15. In verses 21 and 23 we see Jeremiah's sensitivity to the misfortunes of his people.

3 Death will be preferable to life for the survivors of this perverse race who remain in places to which I have driven them.

Sin and punishment

4 This is what Yahweh told me, “You will say to them: Doesn’t the one who falls get up and the one who goes away return? 5 Why then has this people turned away in stubborn rebellion? They make a habit of deceit and refuse to repent.

6 I listened attentively; they did not speak truthfully nor did they repent of their wickedness. No one says: ‘What have I done!’ They all follow their own course like horses plunging into battle. 7 Even the stork in the sky knows her times; the dove, the swallow and the crane know the time to return, but my people do not know the ordinances of Yahweh.

8 How dare you say: ‘We are wise and the law of Yahweh is with us’ when the deceiving pen of the scribe has turned it into a lie? 9 The wise will be put to shame; they shall be dismayed and trapped. Since they have despised the word of Yahweh, what then is left as the basis of their wisdom?

10 That is why I will give their wives to other men, their fields to conquerors, for all of them, the smallest to the greatest, are greedy for gain. All, from the prophet to the priest, practice deceit. 11 They treat lightly the wound of my people saying ‘Peace, peace!’ when there is no peace.

12 They should be ashamed of their abominable deeds. They have no shame and don’t even know how to blush. Surely they shall fall along with those who will fall; for I will ask them to account and they will stumble.

13 I will make an end of them—it is Yahweh who speaks—for the vine yields no grapes, the fig tree no figs, even the leaves are withered. I will hand them over to the passersby.’

14 Why do we sit still? Get up! We shall go to the fortified cities to perish there. See, Yahweh our God wants us to die and gives us poisoned water, because we have sinned against him.

15 We hoped for good fortune, but nothing good has come of it. We hoped for a time of relief, but we experience terror instead. 16 From Dan we hear the snorting of his horses; at the sound of the neighing of his stallions the whole earth trembles.”

– “They are coming to destroy the land and everything in it! They are coming to destroy the cities and everyone who lives in them! 17 For I am letting loose against you snakes and adders that cannot be charmed, and they will bite you.”

18 Sorrow takes hold of me, my heart fails me. 19 I hear my dear people crying out throughout the length and breadth of the land. They are crying, ‘Is Yahweh no longer in Zion? Is her divine King no longer there?’ Yahweh answers, “Why then do they provoke me to anger with their images, with their worthless foreign idols?”

20 The harvest is over, the summer is past and we have not been saved. 21 I am brokenhearted because of my people’s misfortune. I am crushed and dismayed. 22 Is there no balm in Gilead? Is there no healer there? Why is no remedy given to my people?

23 I would that my head were a well of water and my eyes a fountain of tears to weep day and night for those of my dear people who have been killed.

9 Who will give me a lodging in the desert that I may leave my people and go far from them? For they are all adulterers, a band of traitors.

The parts of it which were already written never left the temple library. For the people the word of God consisted of the traditions kept by the priests, and their decisions that applied the Law of God; it also meant the words of the prophets who transmitted the word of God for their day. However, these two sources of faith were corrupted: it was no longer possible to know the meaning of the events which the nation was experiencing.

In verses 10-12 we have a repetition of what was said in 6:12-15.

In verses 21 and 23 we see Jeremiah’s sensitivity to the misfortunes of his people.
Nowadays it is not enough to know the letter of the Scriptures: we need to have guidance of the Church and its prophets help us apply the text to our present situation.

True wisdom

Jas 1:9

JEREMIAH 9

2 They bend their tongue like bows.
Deceit and not truth prevail in the land.
They commit one crime after another and do not know me.

3 Each one is suspicious of his friend and no one trusts his brother, brother deceives brother, friend slanders friend.

4 They deceive each other;
no one speaks the truth.
Their tongues are addicted to lying;
they are perverse and too hardened to repent.

5 They live amidst deceitfulness and deceitfulness prevents them from knowing me.

6 Therefore thus says Yahweh: I will now refine and test them, for what else can I do for my people?

7 Their tongues are like deadly arrows, uttering deceitful words.
With their friend they speak of peace but in their heart they set a trap for him.

8 Isn’t it reason enough for me to punish them?
Shall I not avenge myself on such a nation?

9 On the mountains there will be weeping and wailing, and on the prairies of the wilderness a dirge, because they have been burnt and deserted, and the sound of flock is heard no more.
The birds of the sky and the beasts have all fled and are gone.

10 I will make Jerusalem a heap of ruins, a den of jackals.
I will make the cities of Judah a wasteland without inhabitants.”

• 11 Who is wise enough to understand these events? And who is the one Yahweh has chosen to reveal them? Why has the land perished and been laid waste like a desert where no one passes?

12 Yahweh answered, “It is because they have forsaken the law that I gave them.
They have not listened to me but in the stubbornness of their heart they have followed the Baals as they were instructed by their ancestors.”

14 That is why Yahweh, the God of Hosts and the God of Israel says, “I will make this people eat bitter food and I will give them poisoned water. I will scatter them among nations that neither they nor their ancestors knew and I will send the sword after them until I have finished with them.”

16 Listen! Call for the wailing women to come, send for the most skillful!

17 Let them hasten to intone a funeral song, and let us weep, our eyes running with tears.

18 The sound of wailing is heard in Zion.
A terrible disaster has befallen us!

19 You women, take heed of what Yahweh says, let your ears pay attention to his words.
Teach this lament to your daughters and each of them to their friends:

20 “Death has come through our windows and invaded our palaces, cutting down the children in the street and young men in the squares!

21 The corpse are scattered in the fields like dung;
like sheaves cut by the reaper with no one to gather them!”

9.11 As we have said with regard to 8:8, the wisdom of believers is not like a rule of individual life which everyone could read in the same way in the Scriptures and practice regardless of the place and time. Their wisdom consists in “understanding events.” In every age, the people of God should respond to the challenge that God offers them through the circumstances of the present time.
Jeremiah 10

10 1 Hear the word which Yahweh speaks to you, people of Israel,
2 "Do not follow the way of the foreign nations and do not fear signs in the sky as they do. The Awesome God of these nations is but nothing. 3 It is only wood cut from a tree in the forest and shaped by a craftsman’s chisel. 4a They adorned it with silver and gold—silver from Tarshish and gold from Ophir—work of a carver and a goldsmith’s hand, all the work of artists; they are dressed in violet and purple cloth woven by skilled weavers. 4b It is fastened down with nails to keep it from falling over. 5 Their idols are like scarecrows in a cucumber field; they cannot speak. They have to be carried because they cannot walk. Have no fear of them; they can do neither harm nor good."

6 No one equals you, Yahweh, you are great. Power is yours, and great is your name! 7 Who would not fear you, King of nations? You are to be feared, for among the wise of the nations and in all their kingdoms no one equals you.

8 They are all brutish and stupid; their idols are proof of their foolishness. 10 But Yahweh is the true God, the living God and eternal King. His anger makes the earth quake; the nations cannot endure his fury. 11 You will say this to them, "The gods who did not make either the heavens or the earth shall disappear from the earth and from under the heavens."
12 By his power he made the earth, by his wisdom he established the world; by his understanding he extended the heavens.
13 When he raises his voice the waters pile up in the heavens. He calls the clouds from the ends of the earth; he sends lightning with the rain and from his storehouse sends out the wind.
14 At this everyone feels stupid and without knowledge. Every goldsmith is ashamed of his idol which is a fraud without breath. 15 They are worthless, ridiculous objects; they shall perish when the time of retribution comes.
16 He instead has formed the universe and Israel as well, the tribe of his inheritance, for he is the portion of Jacob: Yahweh, God of Hosts is his name.
17 Gather up your belongings and leave the land, you who are the victims of siege, the land, you who are the victims of siege, 18 for thus says Yahweh, "I am hurling far away the inhabitants of this land, and I will let them be pursued and captured."
19 Woe is me! What suffering! My wound is incurable!

23 But if someone wants to boast, let him boast of this: of understanding and knowing me. I am Yahweh, the merciful; I implement justice and rule the world with righteousness. For in these things I delight,” this is Yahweh’s word.

24 “The time is coming,” Yahweh says, “when I will ask to account both those who are circumcised and those who are not: Egypt, Judah, the Amonites and the Moabites with all the Arabs of the desert, for all these nations are not circumcised, and the people of Israel are not circumcised in their heart.”

Idols and the true God

Is 8:12; Rom 12:2
Is 40:19; Wis 13–14
Bar 6: 3–26; Ps 115:4–7
Rev 15:4

I am Yahweh, the merciful; I implement justice and rule the world with righteousness (v. 23) the means whereby we remain steadfast in the face of evil: it will stir up our desire to imitate God and to dedicate ourselves to bringing kindness, law and justice into this world.

We should be ashamed when we compare the time we spend with sterile occupations (interminable gossiping, profitless reading, superficial programs on TV and internet) with the time we dedicate to knowing God.
But I shall say: “Mine is this illness, I must bear it.”

My tent is destroyed, all its cords are snapped. My children have left me and are no more; no one is left to pitch my tent or to set my shelter up.

For the pastors have become senseless and have not consulted Yahweh; they have not prospered and all their flocks are scattered.

A great commotion is heard from the north; they are coming to make the cities of Judah a desolate land, a den of jackals.

Jeremiah’s prayer

23 You know, Yahweh, that man’s life is not within his own control and it is not for him to direct his steps!

24 Correct us, Yahweh, with prudence, not in anger, lest you destroy us completely.

25 Put out your anger on the nations that do not know you, on the people who do not call on your name. For they have devoured Jacob and consumed him thoroughly; his homeland is already laid waste.

Jeremiah supports Josiah’s reform

11 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh: 2 Say to the people of Jerusalem: 3 Cursed be anyone who does not heed the terms of this Covenant which I ordained for your ancestors the day I freed them from that cleansing furnace that Egypt is. I said to them: ‘If you obey my voice and do all that I command you, you will be my people and I will be your God. 5 Then I will fulfill the promise I swore to your ancestors, to give you a land flowing with milk and honey,’ (as it is today).”

I replied, “Amen, Yahweh.”

Yahweh said to me, “Publish what I say in the cities of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem, ‘Hear the terms of this Covenant and keep them. 7 When I brought your ancestors out of Egypt, I solemnly warned them and have continued to tell them: ‘Obey me.’ 8 But they did not listen to me or heed what I said; each one followed his own stubborn heart. So I fulfilled against them all the words of this Covenant that I had commanded them, but which they did not follow.”

Yahweh said to me, “There is a conspiracy among the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 10 They have returned to the sins of their ancestors who refused to obey me; they have followed and served foreign gods. The nation of Israel and the nation of Judah have broken the Covenant I made with their ancestors.”

11 That is why Yahweh says to you, “I will bring upon them a disaster from which there will be no escape. When they cry to me I will not listen.

12 Then the cities of Judah and the people of Jerusalem will go crying to the gods they worship, but these will not help them in the time of misfortune.

13 For you, Judah, have as many gods as there are cities; as numerous as the streets in Jerusalem are the altars you have raised to Baal.”

14 For your part, do not intercede for this people, nor offer a plea or petition because I will not listen when they cry to me in the time of their distress.

15 What is my beloved doing in my house? She is plotting evil deeds. Will your vows and the meat of your victims cleanse you from your wickedness and allow you to rejoice? Yahweh had called you 16 ‘Beautiful Green Olive Tree—fair and fruitful!’

But with the roar of a storm, its foliage took fire and its branches were broken.

10.23 Correct us, Yahweh, with prudence (v. 24). Here, suddenly, the heart of Jeremiah manifests itself. He does not forget he is an Israelite and he asks God to restore justice, to punish those powerful nations that come to destroy Judah whenever they like. After repeating many times that those enemy nations were sent by God himself against Judah, he now rebels.

11.1 This chapter is one of the few offering us the preaching of Jeremiah in the years following the “discovery of the Law” and Josiah’s reform (see 2 K 22). For a while, wishing to do his best to serve Yahweh, king Josiah aroused a new fervor. Yet, when we read what Jeremiah says here, we see that the conversion of the people was not, nor could be, in depth.
17 And Yahweh, God of Hosts, who planted you, has condemned you to shame. Indeed the nation of Israel and the nation of Jacob harmed themselves when they worshiped Baal and aroused my anger.

Plot against Jeremiah

18 Yahweh made it known to me and so I know! And you let me see their scheming: (12:6) “Take care, even your kinsfolk and your own family are false with you, and behind your back they freely criticize you. Do not trust them when they approach you in a friendly way.”

19 But I was like a gentle lamb led to the slaughter. I did not know it was against me that they were plotting, “Let us feed him with trials and remove him from the land of the living and let his name never be mentioned again.”

20 Yahweh, God of Hosts, you who judge with justice and know everyone’s heart and intentions, let me see your vengeance on them, for to you I have entrusted my cause.

21 This is what Yahweh has to say against the people of Anathoth who threatened me with death and said, “Do not prophesy any more in the name of Yahweh and we will spare your life.”

22 Yahweh says to them, “This is how I will punish you: the young men shall die by the sword; their sons and daughters shall die of hunger. No one will survive when I bring disaster on the people of Anathoth in the year of their punishment.”

Why do the wicked prosper?

1 Yahweh, you are always right when I complain to you; nevertheless, where is your justice? Why do the wicked prosper?

And why do traitors live in peace?

2 You plant them and they take root; they grow and are fruitful; they honor you with words but their heart is far from you.

3 But you, Yahweh, you know me and see me; you search my heart—it is close to you. Send them off like sheep to be butchered; put them aside for the day of slaughter.

4 How long will the land be in mourning and the grass of the fields remain withered? The birds and the beasts have perished because of the wickedness of the inhabitants, for they say: ‘God does not see what we do.’

Jeremiah knew that in order to be faithful to God, one must be moved and transformed by him.

• 12.1 For the first time, Jeremiah questions the prosperity of evil people, as will Psalms 73 and 49 and, above all, the Book of Job. It is not without reason that Jeremiah wonders: for he is constantly persecuted.

If you tire when running with those on foot, how can you compete with horses? (v. 5). Yahweh’s answer seems harsh: it only predicts more cruel trials for Jeremiah (that is the meaning of the refrain). When his true friends hesitate, God does not make the way easier for them: he knows that by proposing new sacrifices to them, he will once again, bring about their generous surrender.
“If you tire when running with those on foot, how can you compete with horses? If you do not feel secure in a peaceful land, what will you do in the thickets of the Jordan?”

7 I have abandoned my house, I have given up my own people; I have given over those I most cherished into the hands of their enemies.
8 My own have been for me like a lion in the forest; they have roared against me—now I hate them.
9 My own have become for me like a bird of prey. Let all the birds of prey attack them. Come here, all you wild beasts and devour them!
10 Many shepherds have ravaged my vine; they have trampled my beloved field and made it a desolate wasteland, 11 parched and mournful in my sight. But no one cares!
12 To every height in the desert destroyers have come, for Yahweh has a devouring sword. It reaches from one end of the land to the other; no one is safe!
13 They have sown grain and reaped thorns; they have toiled for nothing. Your harvests bring shame on you because of Yahweh’s anger.

14 Yahweh declares, “Because all my wicked neighbors have laid hands on the land I gave my people Israel, I will uproot them from their own land, and I will uproot the people of Judah from among them.
15 But after I have done this, I will have compassion on them and bring them back to their possession, each one to his own land.

16 If, then, they learn the ways I taught my people and call upon my name when taking an oath, they, who once taught my people to swear by Baal, may settle among my people. 17 But if then, any nation does not obey me, I will uproot and destroy it—it is Yahweh who speaks.”

The linen belt

13 1 This is what Yahweh said to me: “Go! Buy yourself a linen belt and put it around your waist; do not put it in water.” 2 So I bought the belt as Yahweh ordered and put it around my waist.
3 The word of Yahweh came to me a second time, 4 “Take the belt you bought, the one you put around your waist, and go to the torrent Perah; hide it there in a hole in the rock.” 5 I went and hid it as Yahweh instructed me.
6 After many days Yahweh said to me, “Go to the torrent Perah and get the belt I ordered you to hide there.” 7 I went to the torrent and dug up the belt but it was ruined and good for nothing;
8 and Yahweh said to me, 9 “In this way I will destroy the pride and great glory of Judah, this wicked people who refuse to heed what I say, this stubborn people who go after other gods to serve and worship them. And they shall become like this belt which is now good for nothing.
10 For just as a belt is to be bound around a man’s waist so was the people of Israel and Judah bound to me—it is Yahweh who speaks—to be my people, my glory and my honor; but they would not listen.

The broken wine jars

12 You will say to them this word of Yahweh the God of Israel, “Every pitcher should be filled with wine.” And they will say: “Don’t we know foolish ways, God will make drunk so that they will lose themselves because of their own foolishness. that a pitcher should be filled with wine?"

13 You will reply, “You are the pitchers that Yahweh will fill until you are drunk. I am going to fill with drunkenness all who live in this land—kings who succeed David, the priests, the prophets and all who live in Jerusalem. 14 I will dash them one against another, parents and children together. I will have neither compassion nor mercy: I am going to destroy them.”

A vision of exile

15 Hear and pay attention; do not be proud, for Yahweh has spoken!

16 Give glory to Yahweh your God before he brings darkness, and your feet stumble in the darkening hills. You were hoping for light, but he will turn it into the darkness of death and deep gloom!

17 If you do not heed this warning I will weep in secret because of your pride and I will shed tears when Yahweh’s flock has been taken captive.

18 Say to the king and the queen mother, “Humble yourselves, for the crown of glory has fallen from your head.

19 The cities of the Negeb have been shut and no one comes to open them, all Judah is deported, completely carried off.”

20 Look up Jerusalem and see those who come from the north. Where is the flock that was entrusted to you and where are your beautiful sheep?

21 What will you say when those you let take liberties with you come back to oppress you?

Won’t your pain be like that of a woman giving birth? 22 And if you ask yourself, “Why has all this disgrace fallen on me?” It is because of your great wickedness that they have torn away your clothes and dealt violently with you.

23 Can an Ethiopian change his skin or a leopard his spots? And can you do good, you who are accustomed to doing evil?

24 I will scatter you like straw blown by the desert wind; 25 that is your reward—it is Yahweh who speaks—because you have forgotten me and trusted in false gods.

26 I myself will pull your skirts over your face and your shame shall be seen.

27 Your adultery, your neighing, your brazen prostitution, all this abomination I have seen on the hills and in the fields. Woe to you Jerusalem! When at last will you be cleansed?”

The great drought

14 The word of Yahweh concerning drought came to Jeremiah:

1 Judah mourns, the cities languish, desolate, they sink to the ground. From Jerusalem a cry is heard.

2 The rich sent the poor for water, but they found none at the cisterns, and returned with empty vessels.
The soil is cracked because there is no rain in the land; the farmers are dismayed and have covered their heads like mourners.

Even the doe in the fields abandons her newborn calf because there is no pasture.

The wild donkeys stand on the heights sniffing the air like jackals and languish as they find not even a thistle!

Even if our faults accuse us, you Yahweh, work for the glory of your name. In truth, many have been our rebellions and great is our sin against you.

O Yahweh! Hope of Israel, you who save in the time of distress, why are you as a stranger in this land, or like a traveler who stays only a night?

Why should you be as if bewildered, like a warrior unable to save? But you are in our midst Yahweh, and on us your name has been invoked. Do not abandon us!

Do not intercede for this people

This is what Yahweh says about this people, “They like to wander here and there, not stopping for a moment, so Yahweh takes no pleasure in them; he remembers their wickedness and will punish their sins.”

And Yahweh said, “Do not pray for the well-being of this people! If they fast I will not listen to their cry; if they offer me burnt offerings and oblations, I will not accept them. Instead, I am going to make an end of them with sword, famine and plague.”

And I said, “Ah, Lord Yahweh! You know what the prophets are saying to them: ‘You will not see the sword nor suffer famine for I will give you true peace in this place.’”

But Yahweh said, “These prophets have proclaimed untruths in my name. I did not send them, nor did I command them or speak to them. False visions, worthless divinations and delusions of their own imagination—that is what they prophesy.”

And Yahweh added, “These prophets whom I did not send and who prophesy in my name, saying that the sword and famine will not touch this land—these same prophets will perish by the sword and famine.

As for the people listening to them, their corpses will be thrown into the streets of Jerusalem. There will be no one to bury them or their wives, their sons or daughters, when they die of famine and by the sword. For I shall make their own malice fall upon them.

This you will say to them: Let my eyes shed tears night and day without ceasing! For with a great wound has the virgin daughter of my people been wounded, a most grievous wound.

If I go into the country, I see those slain by the sword. If I enter the city I see the ravages of famine. For the prophet and the priest did not understand what was happening in the land.”

A true prophet is not accepted by his own people whereas those who provide opium for the people are praised.
19 Have you then rejected Judah forever? Do you abhor Zion? Why have you wounded us and left us with no hope of recovery?

We hoped for salvation but received nothing good; we waited for healing, but terror came!

20 Yahweh, we know our wickedness and that of our ancestors, and the times we have sinned against you.

21 For your name’s sake do not despise us; do not dishonor the throne of your glory. Remember us. Do not break your Covenant with us!

22 Among the worthless idols of the nations, are there any who can bring rain, or make the skies send showers?

Only in you, Yahweh our God, do we hope, for it is you who do all this.

15 Yahweh answered me, “Even if Moses and Samuel came in person to plead for this people, my heart would have no pity. Send them away from my presence! Let them go! 2 And if they say: ‘Where shall we go?’ tell them: Yahweh says this: Those destined for the plague, to the plague; for the sword, to the sword; for starvation, to starvation; those for captivity, to captivity.

3 For I shall send them four kinds of destroyers: the sword to slay, dogs to ravage, birds of the sky and beasts of the earth to devour and destroy. 4 I shall make them an object of horror for all the kingdoms of the world because of what Manasseh, son of Hezekiah, king of Judah, did in Jerusalem.

The horrors of war

3 Who will take pity on you, Jerusalem? Who will feel sorry for you? Who will turn to ask how you are?

6 It was you who rejected me—word of Yahweh—you turned your back on me, and because of that I have stretched out my hand to destroy you.

I was weary of showing mercy!

7 I winnowed them with a fork in the cities of the land, I left my people without children; I brought them to ruin, but they did not change their ways.

8 Their widows are more numerous than the sand of the seas. On the mothers of their young men I have brought a destroyer who ravages in broad daylight. Suddenly terror and fear grips them.

9 The mother who had seven children is confused and discouraged as if breathing her last. Although it is still day her sun has set.

As for those who remain, I shall let them be slain by the sword in sight of their enemies—it is Yahweh who speaks.

12 Can you break iron that comes from the north, or bronze?

13 I will let your wealth and your treasures be handed over to plunderers, not for a price but because of all your sins within your frontiers.

14 You shall be slaves of your enemies among a people you do not know, for the fury of my anger is on fire and will burn you up.”

Yahweh, remember me!

• 10 Woe is me, Mother, why did you bring me to the light?

A man of dissension throughout the land!

I owe them nothing, neither do they owe me, yet they all curse me!

11 Tell me Yahweh, if I have not served you well!

Did I not plead with you for my enemies in the time of their shame and disgrace?

15 You know I have, Yahweh!

• 15.10 An amazing text where Jeremiah reveals his own personal crisis.

Being a prophet is not easy at all. God’s word is not welcomed. Anyone who struggles for the truth is surrounded by people wishing evil on him and trying to bring him down: he is rarely understood even in his own home. The situation is even worse for God’s prophet. The Lord shares with him his own way of seeing and feeling things. The prophet can no longer join in Take care of me, defend me; take vengeance on my persecutors.
Remember! For you I have suffered great humiliations.

16 I devoured your words when they came.
They were my happiness and I felt full of joy when you made your name rest on me.

17 I never associate with worldly people, amusing myself with scoffers!
When your hand was upon me I stood apart and you filled me with your anger.
18 Why is there no end to my sorrow or healing for my wound?
Why do you deceive me,
and why does my spring suddenly dry up?

19 Then Yahweh spoke to me,
"If you return I will take you back and you will serve me again.
Draw the gold from the dross and you will be as my own mouth.
You must draw them to you and not go over to them.

20 I will make you a fortress and a wall of bronze facing them; if they fight against you they will not overcome you;

21 I am with you to free you and save you.
I will redeem you from the wicked and free you from the hands of tyrants."

Do not take a wife

1 The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms:
"Do not take a wife nor have sons and daughters in this place, for this is what Yahweh says about sons and daughters born here, and about fathers and mothers who bring them to light in this country:

4 All will die of fatal diseases and no one will mourn for them or bury them; their corpses will be like dung on the ground. They will perish by the sword and by starvation and their corpses will be devoured by birds of prey and wild animals."

5 Yahweh further insisted, "Do not go into a house of mourning; neithe cheap joy and the meaningless conversations that fill so many lives.

Your words were my happiness (v. 16).
God’s word brings the taste of truth and something of the very presence of God. The price of this joy is that he is condemned to live alone.
Today the prophet feels the presence of God who helps him, but as a creature he begins to doubt: What if God keeps himself aloof tomorrow? And he becomes faint.

God does not approve of his prophet’s weakness: Draw the gold from the dross (v. 19), namely, let what is good and noble in you speak out, and silence these fears and complaints which come from a weak nature.

• 16.1 Do not take a wife (v. 2). The prophets discover that God is the true Spouse. God’s passionate and faithful love for his people is the model for married love. Since prophets become ther weep nor loudly lament with the bereaved for I have already withdrawn my peace from these people—even my unwavering love and compassion. 6 Both the great and the lowly in this country will perish and no one will mourn for them or bury them. No one shall gash his skin or shave his head as an act of mourning. 7 No funeral meal shall be shared to comfort the bereaved or console them on the death of their fathers and mothers.

8 Do not go to a house of celebration to feast with them before foods and drinks, 9 for Yahweh Saboath, the God of Israel has this to say:

In this place and before your very eyes, I will muffle every sound of pleasure and joy, even the song of the newlywed.

- 10 When you announce all these things to the people, they will ask you: ‘Why has Yahweh decided to bring such terrible disasters on us? What wickedness or sin have we committed against Yahweh our God?’

11 Then you shall tell them: ‘It is because your ancestors turned away from me and went after other gods to serve and worship them. They have forsaken me and refused to obey my law. 12 But you are worse than your ancestors because each of you has gone his own evil ways following his stubborn heart in complete defiance of me. 13 Therefore, I will kick you out of this land into a place which is strange to you and your ancestors. There, you will serve other gods day and night, and you will get no compassion from me.’”

14 Yahweh says, “The days are coming when people will no longer say, ‘Yahweh is a living God for he brought the Israelites out of Egypt.’ 15 Rather, they will say, ‘Yahweh is a living God for he liberated the Israelites out of the northern land and out of all the countries where he had banished them.’ Yes, I will bring them back to their own country—the land that I bestowed to their ancestors.”

16 But now Yahweh says, “I am sending for many fishermen to catch them. Afterward, I will send for many hunters to hunt them down on every mountain, hill and cave in the rocks. 17 The things that they do are manifest before my eyes and the sins that they commit are not hidden from me. 18 I will make them pay double for their wickedness and sin; they have contaminated my land with their idols that are as dead as corpses and have filled it with their abominations.”

Will people make their own gods?

19 Yahweh, my strength and my fortress, my refuge in times of distress! From the furthest limits of the earth nations will come to you and say, “Our ancestors possessed only falsehood, worthless idols bereft of power.” 20 Will people make their own gods? Then they are not gods!

21 Hence Yahweh says: “I will show and let them know my power and my might. And they will know that Yahweh is my name.”

17 The sin of Judah is engraved with a tool of steel, with a point of diamond. It is written on the tablets of their hearts as on the horns of their altars. 2 Their altars and sacred poles witness of it beside the mouthpiece and the representative of God, all that they do becomes a sign. Thus, they cannot seek a happy marriage as long as Israel, Yahweh’s bride, turns her back on her God.

And so, before Jeremiah, another prophet, Hosea, only knew the suffering of the betrayed husband in his home and he had to constantly forgive his adulterous wife (Hos 3:1). Ezekiel sees his wife die suddenly (Ezk 24:15). Jeremiah will have neither wife nor children; it is not fitting for him to marry at the very time the first covenant is being destroyed. Later, neither John the Baptist, nor the apostle John, nor Paul will marry: this will become a sign. Thus, they will help us understand that they only live for the coming marriage of Christ and his glorified Church, of which marriage is only an image.

- 10. Following we have parts of discourses that Jeremiah made on very different occasions.

- You will notice in 17:5-11 that similar content is found in several Psalms, and especially in Psalm 1. Where it says “he”, can also be read as “she”.

- The prayer 17:14-18.
every green tree, on the high hills and in the open country! I will give away your wealth and your treasures as plunder because of your sin in the high places of your land.

Because of your fault you will lose the land I gave you. I will give you as slaves to your enemies in a land that you have never known before, for you have kindled the fire of my anger and it will burn forever.

Words of wisdom

5 This is what Yahweh says, “Cursed is the man who trusts in human beings and depends on a mortal for his life, while his heart is drawn away from Yahweh!

6 He is like a bunch of thistles in dry land, in parched desert places, in a salt land where no one lives and who never finds happiness.

7 Blessed is the man who puts his trust in Yahweh and whose confidence is in him! He is like a tree planted by the water, sending out its roots towards the stream.

   He has no fear when the heat comes, his leaves are always green; the year of drought is no problem and he can always bear fruit.

9 Most deceitful is the heart. What is there within man, who can understand him? 10 I, Yahweh, search the heart and penetrate the mind. I reward each one according to his ways and the fruit of his deeds.

11 Like a partridge hatching eggs it did not lay, is someone who hoards riches that he unjustly gained.

   At the noontime of his life, his wealth will abandon him; at the twilight of his breath, his folly will be confirmed.”

12 What a glorious and exalted throne is our Sanctuary! 13 Yahweh, hope of Israel, all who forsake you will be put to shame and those who turn from you will be cast out from your land, for they have rejected Yahweh, the fountain of living water.

14 Heal me, Yahweh, and I shall be whole; save me and I shall be safe, O you, my hope!

15 People say to me, “Where are Yahweh’s threats? Let them be carried out now!”

16 But I did not urge you to bring devastation nor a time of tragic death;
   you well know my desire and my pleading is in your ears. 17 Do not terrorize my heart; be my refuge in the day of disaster.
   Let my persecutors be humbled, rather than me!
   Let them be terrified but not me!
   Let the day of misfortune fall on them!
   Crush them twice over!

Observance of the Sabbath

• 19 The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, “Go and stand at the gate they call the People Gate, where the kings of Judah enter and leave; 20 and tell the king and all the people of Judah that this is what Yahweh says:

21 For the sake of your lives, be careful not to carry a load on the Sabbath day or bring it through the gates of Jerusalem. 22 Carry no burden out of your adobes and refrain from work on the day of the Sabbath. Uphold its sacredness as I commanded your forefathers.

23 They did not obey me or pay

15:13-14 Hebrew of the word Sabbath (v. 22). Jeremiah often denounces the religious practices which are not accompanied by an upright life; but that does not mean that he minimizes the respect towards God which is manifested externally.

The Law of Rest (such is the meaning in attention to what I said. Stiff-necked as they were, they would not hear or accept my warnings.

But if you pay attention—it is Yahweh who speaks—and keep the Sabbath holy, not working or carrying loads through the gates of Jerusalem, then you will be witnesses to the entry of kings of David's descent through these gates, riding in chariots and on horses. You shall see them and their princes along with the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and this city shall last forever.

People will come from the towns of Judah and from the suburbs of Jerusalem, from the territory of Benjamin, from the Lowland and the hill country and from the Negeb, bringing into the temple burnt offerings and sacrifices, grain offerings and incense, as an act of thanksgiving to Yahweh.

But if you do not listen and do not keep the Sabbath holy, if you work and carry loads through the gates of Jerusalem, then I will set fire to those gates. It will burn the city and will not be quenched.”

At the potter’s house

This is the word of Yahweh that came to Jeremiah: “Go down to the potter’s house and there you will hear what I have to say.”

So I went to the potter’s house and found him working at the wheel.

But the pot he was working on was spoiled in his hands, so he reworked it all over again into another pot that suits his desire.

Meanwhile Yahweh sent me his word, “People of Israel, can I not do with you what this potter does? As clay in the potter’s hand so are you in my hands.

At times I warn a nation or a kingdom that I will uproot or destroy it. But if they change their ways, I will then relent and refrain from doing the harm I had intended to do.

At other times I declare that a nation or kingdom will be built up and planted but then they do what displeases me and do not listen to me, so I decide to reverse the good deeds that I intend to do.”

And Yahweh added, “Now tell the people of Judah and to those who live in Jerusalem: Yahweh says to you, ‘Listen, I am planning to destroy you; I am hatching a devastating plot against you! Turn from your evil ways; rectify your conduct and your deeds.’ But you reply: ‘It’s no use! We shall follow our own plans’; and each one goes on obeying his stubborn heart.”

My people have forsaken me

Because of this Yahweh has to say: Ask among the nations, ‘Has anyone heard the like of this? The Virgin Israel has done a most abominable thing.

Does the snow of Lebanon ever leave the rocky heights of the field? Do the fresh waters of great rivers ever dry up?

Yet my people have forgotten me, offering incense to empty idols that made them stumble on their way as they left the ancient paths. Now they have taken the wrong way, the crooked way that leads nowhere.

Their land will be left desolate, and an object of lasting derision. All who pass by will be astonished and shake their heads.

Like the wind that blows from the east I will scatter them before their enemies; if they change their ways, I will then relent and refrain from doing the harm I had intended to do (v. 8). At any time, one can be converted and God will act accordingly. There is no plan of God written beforehand that we have to follow, pushed to do good or evil by some fatal destiny. God is continually creating us and he achieves his plan for the world while 18 In several parts of the Scriptures, the comparison with the potter serves to show that God is absolute master and directs the lives of all according to his will: individuals as well as nations (see Is 29:16 and Rom 9:20). Here the same comparison is used to provide another teaching which complements the first: namely that we are free.

I will turn my back to them, not my face, in the day of their disaster!

Do not forgive their sin

18 Then, they said, “Come, let us plot against Jeremiah, for even without him, there will be priests to interpret the teachings of the law; there will always be wise men to impart counsel and prophets to proclaim the word.

Come, let us accuse him and strike him down instead of listening to what he says.”

19 Hear me, O Yahweh! Listen to what my accusers say.

20 Is evil the reward for good? Why do they dig a grave for me? Remember how I stood before you to speak well on their behalf so that your anger might subside.

21 Now let their children starve; hand them over to the sword! Let their wives become childless and widows!

Let their men be victims of plague and their young men be slain in battle!

22 Let cries be heard in their houses when you suddenly bring bandits against them, for they have dug a pit to trap me and hidden snares to catch my feet.

23 O Yahweh, you know all of their plots to take my life! Forgive not their crime; forget not their sin; crush them on the day of your anger.

The broken jar

19 This was an order of Yahweh to Jeremiah, “Go and buy a jar from the potter. Take with you some elders of the people and a few senior priests, and go out to the valley of Ben-Hinnom at the entrance to the Potsherd Gate. Proclaim there what I tell you.

Say this: Hear the word of Yahweh, kings of Judah and citizens of Jerusalem! Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel is the one who speaks. I am about to send a disaster upon this place that will make the ears of those who hear it tingle.

Here they have forsaken me, offering incense to foreign gods that neither they, their ancestors nor the kings of Judah have known. They have profaned this place by filling it with the blood of the innocent.

They have put up high places for Baal to burn their children in fire as a sacrifice. This is something that I have never commanded them to do, much less conceived in my mind.

6 Hence, I, Yahweh, tell you now that the days will surely come when this place will no longer be called Topheth or the Valley of Ben Hinnom, but the Valley of Massacre.

In this place I will frustrate the plans of Judah and Jerusalem and let them be slain by their enemies—the very people who have doggedly sought their lives. Then, I will commit their corpses to the birds and the beasts as food. I will transform this city into a horrible wasteland—an object of scorn and a panorama of horror that will shock passers-by and make them hiss at upon witnessing the terrible catastrophe! The city will be surrounded by the enemies who have vowed to massacre the people. No one will be able to flee from this tight siege and the people in the city will be forced to eat the flesh of one another, even that of their very own children.

Then, you shall break the jar before the people who have accompanied you and you will tell them that I, Yahweh the God of Hosts, will smash the people of this city like the shattered jar of the potter which is beyond repair. People will bury the dead even in Topheth, for there is no more space in the land to bury them.

This is precisely what I will do to Jerusalem and its citizens, making this city like Topheth. The houses of Jerusalem and the palaces of the kings of Judah will be defiled like Topheth because the roofs of these houses have been used to burn incense for the stars of the skies and to pour wine-offerings for strange gods.”

Confrontation in the temple

14 Then Jeremiah left Topheth where Yahweh had sent him to prophes, and stood on the porch of the house of Yahweh. There he told all the people, 15 “Listen to the word of Yahweh, God of Israel: I am about to bring on this city and the towns surrounding the disaster that I have already foretold, because they are a stiff-necked people and will not listen to me.”

When the priest Pashur, son of Immer, who was the chief officer in the house of Yahweh, heard Jeremiah prophesying like this, 2 he ordered his people to beat Jeremiah and put him in chains at the Gate of Benjamin, the upper gate at the house of Yahweh. 3 The next day, after Pashur ordered the release of Jeremiah, Jeremiah told Pashur, “Yahweh has already changed your name. It is not Pashur anymore but ‘Terror on every side.’ 4 For Yahweh says: I am going to hand you over to terror, you and your friends. They will fall under the sword of their enemies while you look on.

I will deliver the people of Judah into the hands of the king of Babylon who will deport them to Babylon or slay them by the sword. 5 I will likewise allow the enemies to plunder all the wealth of this city. All the possessions and treasures of the kings of Judah will be seized and carried off to Babylonia. 6 As for you, Pashur, you and your entire family will be taken as captives to Babylon where you will die and be buried—you and all your friends whom you deceived with lies.”

You have seduced me

- 'Yahweh, you have seduced me and I let myself be seduced.

You have taken me by force and prevailed.
I have become a laughingstock all day long;
they all make fun of me,
for every time I speak
I have to shout, “Violence! Devastation!”
Yahweh’s word has brought me insult and derision all day long.

So I decided to forget about him and speak no more in his name.

the priests are angry at this individual’s condemnation of a society in which they live without problems.

- 20.7 This “confession” recalls the one in Chapter 15. The Bearer of the Truth is rejected and mocked simply because he speaks by virtue of a personal mission which the people do not accept. Let us not forget that Jeremiah lived six centuries before Jesus, long before there was any thought of the beyond, so we will have a better understanding of why he cries for divine justice.

You have taken me by force (v. 7): is there anything more understandable if God is Love?

But his word is like a fire in my bones (cf. v. 9). What is really amazing is the irresistible power of God’s word. It is more difficult to resist it than to face human opposition. Paul will declare, in a fairly similar way, that he cannot evade the responsibility of preaching the Gospel (1 Cor 9:16). This text forces us to revise and deepen the very simplistic ideas we have concerning our freedom: being faithful to the most demanding mission is also to be free.

The curse which follows in verses 14-18 will be picked up and developed in the third chapter of Job.
But his word in my heart becomes like a fire burning deep within my bones.
I try so hard to hold it in,
but I cannot do it.

10 I hear many people whispering, “Terror is all around!
Denounce him! Yes, denounce him!”
All my friends watch me to see if I will slip:
   “Perhaps he can be deceived,” they say;
   “then we can get the better of him and have our revenge.”

11 But Yahweh, a mighty warrior, is with me.
My persecutors will stumble and not prevail;
that failure will be their shame and their disgrace will never be forgotten.
12 Yahweh, God of Hosts, you test the just and probe the heart and mind.
   Let me see your revenge on them, for to you I have entrusted my cause.
13 Sing to Yahweh! Praise Yahweh and say:
   he has rescued the poor from the clutches of the wicked!

14 Cursed be the day I was born!
Bless not the day my mother brought me to light!
15 Cursed be the man who broke the news to my father: 'It's a boy!'
   and it made him joyful!
16 Let him be like the towns that Yahweh destroyed without mercy.
   Let him hear a warning shout in the morning and a battle cry at noon!
17 For he did not kill me in the womb, that my mother would have been my grave, and have carried me forever.
18 Why did I ever leave the womb to live in trouble and sorrow, and spend my days in shame?

An answer for Zedekiah

1 These words of Yahweh came to Jeremiah when king Zedekiah sent Pashur, son of Malchiah and the priest
Zephaniah son of Maaseiah, to say to him:
2 “Consult Yahweh on our behalf, for Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, has started a war with us. Perhaps Yahweh will work a few of his miracles and make the enemy withdraw.”

3 Jeremiah replied, “This is what Yahweh the God of Israel says to Zedekiah:
4 I am about to bring back to you the weapons with which you are fighting outside the wall, the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans who are besieging you; and I will pile up these weapons in the center of the city.
5 Then I myself will fight against you with outstretched hand and mighty arm, with anger and fury and great wrath, 6 I will strike all in the city, both humans and animals, and they will perish in a terrible plague.
7 After this—it is Yahweh who speaks
—I will hand over Zedekiah, king of Judah, his servants and the citizens who survive the plague, the sword and famine over to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon. I will hand them over to their enemies, to those who have been hounding their blood. They shall be slain without mercy or compassion.”
8 Then Yahweh instructed me to say this to the people: “Take heed! I, Yahweh, am presenting you a choice between the way that leads to life and the way that leads to death. 9 Those who remain in the confines of the city will meet their deaths by the sword, famine or plague; those who go out and surrender to the Chaldeans besieging the city will live and will be the only ones to be saved.

10 For I am turning to this city for its ruin, not for its good—word of Yahweh—it will be given over to the king of Babylon who will destroy it by fire.”

Address to the royal family

11 You will give this message to the king’s officials. To the royal family of Judah say this: 12 Officials of David’s palace, hear the word of Yahweh:

“Give judgment each morning and deliver the oppressed from the hand of the oppressor, lest my fury break loose like a fire with no one to quench it.”

13 This is Yahweh’s word, “See, I am coming to you who live in the hills overlooking the valley, you who say, ‘Who will come against us and enter this secure place?’

14 I will punish you according to your deeds, and in your forests I will kindle a fire that will devour all that surrounds it.”

Against evil kings

1 Yahweh said to me, “Go to the palace of the king of Judah and give him this message: 2 Hear the word of Yahweh, O king of Judah who sits on the throne of David. To you, your servants and all who enter by these gates, 3 Yahweh says:

Practice justice and do good.
Free the oppressed from their oppressor.

Harm not the foreigners, the orphans and the widows; do them no violence, and let no innocent blood be spilled in this place.

“If you do this, kings succeeding king David will enter these gates riding on their chariots and horses, together with their servants and their people.

9 But if you do not listen to these words, then I swear by myself, Yahweh declares, this place will become a ruin.”

6 For this is what Yahweh says of the royal house of Judah:

For me you are like Gilead, like a peak of Lebanon! And yet I will transform you into a desert, a city where no one lives. 7 I will prepare destroyers to attack you, each with an ax in his hand. They will cut down your choice cedars and throw them into the fire.

8 Pagans without number will pass by this city and say to one another, “Why has Yahweh dealt with this great city in such a way?”

9 And they will answer, “Because they broke their Covenant with Yahweh, their God, and worshiped and served other gods!”

10 Weep not for the one who is dead! grieve not for him.
Mourn rather for him who is in exile for he will never return to see his homeland again!

11 For this is what Yahweh has said of king Josiah’s son, Shallum, who succeeded his father as king of Judah:

12 “He will never return, for he will die in the place to which he has been deported and will never see this land again.

Against Jehoiakim

13 Damned is the one who builds his house with stolen goods, and extends it upwards by means of injustice;
he who makes his fellowman work for nothing and refuses to give him his wages!

• 22.1 The passage in 21:1-10 refers to the second siege of Jerusalem in the year 588 B.C. Then from 22:1-28 we have several oracles against the royal family, before the first siege, in the years 605-598 B.C. See 2 Kings 23:31-37 concerning those kings.

In those days, the nobility and the civil servants of Jerusalem lived as usual, without being concerned about the ongoing crises of the kingdom. Yet, before long, they would all be killed or exiled.

The same is also true now: rich countries and people are enjoying themselves and live in indifference on top of a volcano. A few words of Dom Helder Camara are appropriate here:

“There has always been violence. But now it is perhaps more massive than ever; it is everywhere and it takes on many forms: brutal, open, subtle, blind, rationalized, consolidated, anonymous, abstract, irresponsible.

If the powerful of the underdeveloped world do not have the courage to let go of their privileges and to bring justice to millions of people living in subhuman situations; if governments
So you build for yourself a fine galace with spacious upper rooms!
So you have large windows put in,
you have it paneled with cedarwood and painted vermilion.

Does amassing cedar make you more of a king?

Was not your father a just man? He ate and drank to his life’s content, but he acted justly and all went well for him. He defended the cause of the poor and needy: this is the meaning of knowing Yahweh.

But your eyes and heart are set on selfish gain, on the shedding of innocent blood, and oppressive violence.

Therefore this is what Yahweh says concerning Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah:

No one shall lament for him saying: Alas, my brother! Alas, O sister! No one shall lament for him saying: Alas, my lord! Alas, your majesty! He will be given the burial of a donkey, dragged away and thrown out beyond the gates of Jerusalem.

Go up to Lebanon and cry out;
weep from the heights of Bashan cry out from Abarim, for all your lovers have been crushed.

I spoke to you in more fortunate days, but you said: ‘I will not listen.’
You have been like that since your youth, paying no attention to my word.

All your shepherds will be scattered by the wind and your lovers will be taken captive; then you will be covered with shame because of your evil deeds.

You who call your house: ‘Lebanon’ and made your nest of cedarwood, how you will groan when sorrow comes like the birth pangs of a woman in labor!

By my life—says Yahweh—even if Je-coniah, Jehoiakim’s son, king of Judah, were the signet ring on my right hand I would pull him off!

I will hand you to those who seek your life, to the Chaldeans you fear.

Then I will hurl you, and the mother who bore you, into a foreign land where you were not born. There you shall die, for to the land for which you long, you will never return!”

Is this Jeconiah a broken and useless crock that no one wants? Why has he been depopulated, he and his family, to a land they do not know?

Land, land, land! Hear what Yahweh says. These are his words, “List this man as childless!” None of his race will succeed; not one will be fortunate to sit on David’s throne and rule again over Judah.

The good shepherd

Woe to the shepherds who mislead and scatter the sheep of my pasture!”

This is the message of Yahweh, God of Israel, to the shepherds in charge of my people, “You have scattered my sheep and driven them away instead of caring for them. Now I will deal with you because of your evil deeds.

I will gather the remnant of my sheep from every land to which I have driven them and I will bring them back to the grasslands. They will be fruitful and increase in number. I will appoint shepherds who will take care of them. No longer will they fear or be terrified. No one will be lost.”

make reforms only on paper; how can we stop the young people who are tempted to adopt radically violent positions?

How long will atomic bombs be feared more than the bomb of poverty which is being built in the heart of the third world?”

23.1 Woe to the shepherds who mislead and scatter! This new attack against evil leaders is the prelude to words of hope.

I will gather the remnant of my sheep (v. 3).
The destruction of the “physical” Israel prepares for the coming of the “spiritual” Israel. People were used to seeing their leaders abuse power, and their rulers become richer. But God is preparing for his people a shepherd who will look after the sheep.

They will call him Yahweh-is-our-justice: this is a way of contrasting him with the king of the time, Zedekiah, which means Yahweh-is-my-justice.

I will appoint shepherds who will take care of them (v. 4). As well as the just king, Jeremiah sees other shepherds: besides the only Shep-Yahweh further says, “The day is coming when I will raise up a king who is David’s righteous successor. He will rule wisely and govern with justice and righteousness. That will be a grandiose era when Judah will enjoy peace and Israel will live in safety. He will be called Yahweh-our-justice!”

Lying prophets

• About the prophets:
  My heart breaks within me, and all my bones tremble, I am like a drunken man, like a man overcome by wine because of Yahweh and his holy words.

The land is full of adulterers. Because of this I put a curse on the country, it is in mourning; and the desert grasslands have withered. They follow an evil path and readily act unjustly. Even the prophet and the priest are corrupt; I have found out about their wickedness in my house—word of Yahweh.

That is why their path will become slippery in the dark, making them stumble and fall when I bring evil upon them in the year of their punishment.

I well know how stupid the prophets of Samaria were; they prophesied in the name of Baal and led my people Israel astray. But among the prophets of Jerusalem I have likewise seen horrors: for they are adulterers and liars!

They encourage the evildoers so that none of them turns away from wickedness. For me all of them are like Sodom; and the common people like Gomorrah.

That is why Yahweh the God of Hosts speaks against the prophets: I will give them bitter food to eat and poisoned water to drink, for from the prophets of Jerusalem evil has spread all over the land.

Thus Yahweh warns, “Do not listen to what the prophets say. They give you false hope and tell you their own illusions, and not what comes from the mouth of Yahweh. They dare say to those who despise me: ‘Yahweh has spoken, be at peace’; and to those who follow their own stubborn hearts they say: ‘No misfortune will come upon you!’

Who then has been present in the council of Yahweh? Who has heard and understood his word? Who has paid attention to his word and is able to pass it on?

The storm of Yahweh’s wrath breaks forth and a whirling hurricane bursts upon the head of the wicked! Yahweh’s wrath will not relent before the full accomplishment of his plans. The time will come when you will understand what it is.

I did not send these prophets, yet they went running. I did not speak, yet they prophesied! Were they present in my council? Then let them proclaim my word to my people and have them turn away from their evil ways and their wicked deeds.

Am I a God only when I am near—it is Yahweh who speaks—and not when I am far off? If someone hides in secret places do I not see him?—Do I not fill the heavens and the earth?

I have listened and heard the lies that the prophets have proclaimed in my name. All said: ‘I had a dream! I had a dream!’ How long will there be prophets of lies who proclaim their own illusions? They would like to make the people forget my name by the dreams they relate to one another, just as their ancestors forgot my name when they followed Baal. The prophet who has a dream prophesies a dream, whereas the one who receives my word proclaims the word of truth. What have straw and wheat in common? Isn’t my word like fire, like the hammer that shatters a rock? That is why I oppose the prophets who steal from one another words that are supposedly mine. I am against the prophets who have only to move their tongues to utter oracles. I am against those whose prophecies are based on lying dreams, who lead my people astray with their trickery and pretensions. I did not commission a prophet or charge them to transmit my orders, so they are of no benefit to my people—word of Yahweh.

And when these people, or a prophet or a priest jestingly asks you: What is the ‘Burden’ of Yahweh? you will answer: ‘You are the burden—and I am going to get rid of you.’ This is Yahweh’s word. And the prophets, priests or common people who say: ‘Burden’ of Yahweh, will be punished, and their household as well.

This is what you should say, to one another, among yourselves, “What is Yahweh’s answer?” or “What has Yahweh said?” But there must be no mention of “Burden” of Yahweh for it shall be burdensome for the one who says it. And if you want to know, this is what Yahweh says: Since you use this expression in spite of my prohibition, I will cast you off and thrust you out of my sight,—you and the city I gave to you and your ancestors. I will bring upon you everlasting shame and dishonor that will be yours forever.

The two baskets of figs

24.1 Yahweh showed me two baskets of figs placed in front of the temple. It was after Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon had deported Jekoniah, son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah together with the princes of Judah, the blacksmiths and metalworkers and had taken them to Babylon.

One of the baskets had choice figs that ripen early, the other had bad ones, so bad that they couldn’t be eaten. Yahweh said to me, “What do you see Jeremiah?” I replied, “Figs. The good figs are excellent but the bad figs are so rotten they cannot be eaten!” So the word of Yahweh came to me: “Just as these figs are good, so do I consider good those who have been deported from Judah to the land of the Chaldeans. I will look kindly on them and bring them back to this land. I will restore and not destroy them, I will plant and not uproot them. I will dispose their heart to know me as Yahweh. They will be my people and I will be their God for they will come back to me with all their heart.

But as far as king Zedekiah of Judah is concerned, I will deal with him as one deals with rotten figs—so rotten they cannot be eaten. I will likewise deal with his princes and the remnants of Jerusalem—those who have stayed in the country and those who have migrated to Egypt. I will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, a reproach and a byword, an object of ridicule, a curse in all the countries to which I will drive them. I will also bring sword, famine and plague upon them until they are utterly erased from the land I gave to them and to their ancestors.

Seventy years of captivity

This is the word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, which was the first year of the duration of the exile of the Jews in Babylon. The two baskets of figs

- 24:1 The first siege of Jerusalem occurred in the year 598 B.C., along with the capitulation of king Jehoiakim, and a first exile. In the ten years that followed, the new king Zedekiah along with the people who remained, acted as if nothing had happened. Though they were defeated and poor, the people of Jerusalem came to think that they were better off and that they only had to lament over the fate of those in exile. Jeremiah rejects this opinion. God is interested in those in exile for they are the beginning of the future renewed people. On the other hand, something worse is going to happen to those remaining in Jerusalem.

- 25:1 This chapter combines: verses 1-13, an introduction which must have come before Jeremiah’s prophecies against the people of Judah and which now form Chapters 1-24 of his book. Note in this passage the prophecy concerning the seventy years which was to be the duration of the exile of the Jews in Babylon.
Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon. And this word was transmitted by the prophet Jeremiah to all the people of Judah and to all the citizens of Jerusalem:

3 "For twenty-three years, that is, from the thirteenth year of Josiah son of Amon until today, the word of Yahweh has come to me and I have continuously spoken to you, but you would not listen. Besides Yahweh has sent his servants the prophets to you again and again, but you neither listened nor paid attention. They said, 'Turn from your evil ways and repent of your wicked deeds that you may live in the land that Yahweh gave to you and your ancestors forever and ever. Do not turn after other gods to serve and worship them. Do not provoke my anger with these things your own hands have made, and I will do you no harm.' But you refused to listen—it is Yahweh who speaks—and provoked my anger with these gods you yourselves have made to your own detriment.

That is why Yahweh God of Hosts says to you: Since you have not listened to what I said, I will summon all the clans of the north—it is Yahweh who speaks—and my steward Nebuchadnezzar will bring them against this land and its inhabitants and against all the surrounding nations. I will completely destroy these people, making them desolate, an object of ridicule, an everlasting ruins. I will banish from them every sound of joy and happiness, the song of the bride and bridegroom, the noise of the mill and the light of the lamp.

All the land will be a ruin and a desolation; and for seventy years these nations will serve the king of Babylon.

But after seventy years I will punish the king of Babylon and his nation for their guilt—it is Yahweh who speaks—and I will make it forever desolate!

On this land I will now bring all that I foretold, all that is written in this book. They will be subject to great nations and kings! I will repay them according to their deeds and the work of their hands."

The cup of God's wrath

Yahweh, the God of Israel, instructed me, "Take from my hand this cup of wine and let all the nations to whom I send you drink from it. They will drink and stagger and lose control of their minds before the sword I am sending among them."

So I took the cup from Yahweh’s hand and made all the nations to whom he sent me drink from it: Jerusalem and the towns of Judah, its kings and officials, to make them a desolation and waste, an object of ridicule and curse, as they are today. Then I gave it to Pharaoh king of Egypt, to his ministers, his princes and all his people, to all the countries of the west, to all the kings of Ûz, to all the kings of the Philistines in Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron and those left at Ashdod; to all the people of Edom, Moab and Ammon; all the kings of Tyre and Sidon: the kings of the coast lands across the sea; Deda, Tama, Buz and all the kings of Arabia and the kings of the west and the kings of those who live in the desert; all the kings of Zimri, Elim and Media and all the kings of the north, far and near, one after the other; all the kings that are found on the face of the earth! And after them the king of Babylon shall drink it!

You will say to them, "This is the message of Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel: 'Drink, get drunk, vomit, fall without rising again in front of the sword I am sending against you.'

But if they refuse to take the cup from your hand to drink, tell them, 'Yahweh the God of Hosts has spoken: You also must drink. For take note, I am already beginning to bring disaster on the city that I call my own. So how can you possibly avoid being punished? You will not go unpunished! For I am proclaiming war against all who live on the earth—it is Yahweh God of Hosts who speaks.'

You will communicate all these words to them and say, "Yahweh roars on high; and from his holy dwelling threatens all the inhabitants of the world. His mighty roar echoes to the farthest ends of the earth. For Yahweh judges all the nations and passes sentence against all human-kind, and he abandons the wicked to the sword—word of Yahweh."

Yahweh, God of Hosts, says, "See, disaster spreads from nation to nation. A storm arises from the ends of the earth.

33 On that day Yahweh’s victims will be spread from one end of the earth to the other. No one will mourn for them; no one will gather them up or bury them—they will be like dung on the soil!

34 Wail, you shepherds, and cry out! Roll in the dust you leaders of flocks for the day of slaughter and dispersal has come for you and you will fall like fattened rams.

35 The shepherds will find no refuge, and the leaders of the flocks will not be able to escape.

36 The shepherds cry out and the leaders of flocks wail. For Yahweh lays waste the grasslands, and the pastures are silent because of the fury of Yahweh’s anger.

38 Like a lion he leaves his lair; because of his fierce wrath the land has been stripped by the sword and has become a waste-land.”

Jeremiah is arrested and judged

26.1 In 7:1-15 we had the discourse against people who trust in the temple. Here Jeremiah’s secretary, Baruch—about whom we will speak later—summarizes the discourse and tells us what impact it had.

• The people defend Jeremiah against the priests and the prophets.
• Jeremiah maintains his position firmly: he cannot provide proof or miracles to confirm what he is saying. He is saved by the conversion of the people: they have recognized the voice of truth.

• They recall the words of the prophet Micah 3:12 in the previous century.

• At the end of the chapter, there is mention of the family of Shaphan, the secretary of the king who had favored the religious reform of king Josiah (see 2 K 22:8). Shaphan and his family will protect Jeremiah on several occasions.

The confrontation between Jeremiah and the with me whatever you consider just and right. 15 But know that I am innocent; and if you take my life you commit a crime that is a curse on yourselves, on the city and the people. In truth it was Yahweh who sent me to say all that I said in your hearing.”

16 Then the leaders, backed by the people, said to the priests and the prophets, “This man does not deserve death; he spoke to us in the Name of Yahweh.”

17 Some of the elders of the land addressed the people’s assembly saying, 18 “Micah of Moresheth prophesied publicly in the time of Hezekiah, king of Judah:

‘Zion will become like a field, Jerusalem a heap of rubble and the temple mound a hill of overgrown thickets.’

19 Did king Hezekiah of Judah and the people of Judah kill him? They instead feared Yahweh and implored his pardon until they succeeded in their plea to make him change his mind; and Yahweh did not inflict the harm with which he had threatened them. How can we commit such a crime?”

20 There was another man, by the name of Uriah son of Shemaiah from Kiriath-jearim who also prophesied in the Name of Yahweh. He spoke against this city and this country in words similar to those of Jeremiah. 21 When king Jehoiakim, together with his officials, heard his words, he decided to do away with him. When Uriah came to know about it, he was scared and fled to Egypt. 22 But king Jehoiakim sent Elnathan son of Achbor with some people into Egypt. 23 They brought Uriah out of Egypt and took him to king Jehoiakim who had him slain and his body thrown into the common people’s burial place.

24 As for Jeremiah he was befriended by Ahikam, son of Shaphan, and was not handed over to those who wanted him put to death.

The yoke of Nebuchadnezzar

27 1 In the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah, son of Josiah, the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah in this way, 2 “Make for yourself ropes and a yoke and put them on your neck. 3 Then send word to the kings of Edom, Moab, Ammon, Tyre and Sidon through their ambassadors, who have come to Jerusalem, to see Zedekiah king of Judah. 4 Give them these instructions for their masters:

Yahweh God of Hosts tells you what you ought to say to your masters:

5 By means of my great power and mighty deeds I made the earth, as well as the people and animals that inhabit it, and I give them to whom ever I wish. 6 Now I have given all these lands into the hands of my steward Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and I will even make the beasts of the field subject to him. 7 All nations will serve him, his son and his grandson until the time for his land comes; and then he will be overpowered by powerful nations and great kings.

8 As for the nation or kingdom that refuses to serve Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, I will punish it with the sword, famine and plague—word of Yahweh—until I completely wipe it out.

9 Hence you must no longer pay attention to your prophets, diviners, interpreters of dreams, astrologers or sorcerers who say that you must not submit yourselves to the king of Babylon. 10 For they are prophets of lies which will cause you to be finally driven from your land. I myself will drive you out and you will perish. 11 But the nation that submits to the yoke of the king of Babylon and serves him, that nation I will leave in its own land—word of Yahweh—to till it and live there.”

12 Then I gave the same message to king Zedekiah of Judah, “Place your neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon. Serve him and his people and you will live. 13 Why should you and your people die by the sword, famine and plague as Yahweh has threatened any nation that will not serve priests is not accidental. Oftentimes the priests who kept the word of God opposed the prophets of their times. John the Baptist was ignored by the priests, and Jesus was condemned by them. The reason is that often the ministers of religion think first of preserving the institutions and the system of which they are the guardians and which provide them with a livelihood, whereas the prophets invite us to forge ahead and be mindful of what is essential.

the king of Babylon? 14 Do not listen to the prophets when they say, 'You will not have to serve the king of Babylon.' For they are deceiving you with their prophesies. 15 I did not send them, says Yahweh, and they falsely use my name in their prophesying. Let it not be that I drive you out of your land and you perish, you and the prophets who have spoken to you.”

16 Then I spoke to the priests and the people, “Yahweh tells you not to listen to your prophets who say, ‘Very soon now the articles from Yahweh’s house will be brought back from Babylon.’ They prophesy lies. 17 Do not listen to them; instead serve the king of Babylon and survive. Why should this city become a ruins? 18 If they were prophets and if they had Yahweh’s word in their hearts, they would now be praying to Yahweh God of Hosts not to allow the objects still remaining in the house of Yahweh and in the royal palace to be carried off to Babylon.

19 For, Yahweh says something about the pillars, the Sea, the movable stands and the other objects still in this city which Nebuchadnezzar did not carry off when he deported Jekoniah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah from Jerusalem to Babylon, together with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem. 20 Yes, this is what Yahweh the God of Hosts says about the objects remaining in the house of Yahweh and in the royal palace in Jerusalem: “They will be taken to Babylon and there they will remain until the day I deal with them. Then I will bring them back and restore them to this place.”

Jeremiah and Hananiah

1 Early in the reign of Zedekiah, king of Judah, in the fifth month of the fourth year, the prophet Hananiah spoke to me. Hananiah son of Azur from Gibeon proclaimed in Yahweh’s house in the presence of the priests and the people, "This is what Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel says: I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon. Within two years I will bring back to this place all the objects that king Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon took away from Yahweh’s house and carried to Babylon. I will likewise bring back Jekoniah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all who were taken from Judah and deported to Babylon. For I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon—word of Yahweh."

Then Jeremiah replied to Hananiah in the presence of the priests and all the people, "So be it! May Yahweh fulfill the words you have spoken and bring back from Babylon to this place the objects taken from the house of Yahweh and all the exiles. Yet hear now what I say in your hearing and the hearing of all the people.

The prophets who came before you and me continually prophesied war, disaster and plague to many nations and great kingdoms. So the prophet who prophesies peace will not be recognized as truly sent by Yahweh, until his predictions are fulfilled."

28.1 As we saw in 22:1, the ten years separating the two sieges of Jerusalem, from 598 to 588, were times of madness and false illusions. People were always predicting the collapse of the empire of Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, and the return of the exiles. Jeremiah rises courageously against such false hope and predicts submission to Nebuchadnezzar and so the Jewish leaders consider him an enemy of the nation.

Jeremiah confronts the false prophets. When prophets do not agree, how can people know the authentic prophet? See Deuteronomy 13:6 and 18:22 on this.

The prophet who prophesies peace will not be accepted until his predictions are fulfilled (v. 9). Jeremiah says something more than Deuteronomy. Ever since Elijah (see 1 K 19:18), the mission of the prophets had been to predict the gradual fall of the kingdom of Israel and to announce that another kingdom would come later. They predicted a few victories, but these would not stop a continuous slipping towards destruction. Therefore, the Jews should have distrusted Hananiah who was promising prosperity more than Jeremiah who insisted on Yahweh’s threats.

The prophets were sent to a sinful people to form their conscience regarding sin and not to put it to sleep. When we live in the midst of injustice, we must distrust those who promise prosperity.
10 Then Hananiah took the yoke from the neck of Jeremiah and broke it. 11 Hananiah proclaimed in the presence of all the people, “Yahweh says this: In the same manner, within two years, will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar from the neck of all the nations.” Then Jeremiah the prophet went on his way.

12 Some time later, a word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah, 13 “Go and tell this to Hananiah: This is what Yahweh says: You have broken a wooden yoke but in its place you will get a yoke of iron.

14 For this is what Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel says: I am placing a yoke of iron on the neck of all the nations to make them serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and they will serve him. I will even give him control over the wild animals.”

15 Then Jeremiah said to Hananiah, “Listen! Hananiah, you have not been sent by Yahweh and yet you have deceived these people, giving them false hope with your lies. 16 That is why Yahweh says with regard to you: I am removing you from the face of the earth. You will die this very year because you have counseled rebellion against Yahweh.”

17 And in the seventh month of that year Hananiah died.

PROPHECIES OF BLESSING

The letter to the exiles

29.1 This is the text of the letter the prophet Jeremiah sent to the rest of the elders, to the priests, the prophets and to all the people that Nebuchadnezzar had deported from Jerusalem to Babylon.

2 This was after king Jekoniah, the queen mother, the officials, the princes of Judah and Jerusalem, the smiths and metalworkers had left Jerusalem.

3 The letter was hand-carried by Elasah son of Shaphan and Gemariah son of Hilki-ah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent to king Nebuchadnezzar in Babylon. It said:

4 This is what Yahweh God of Hosts and God of Israel says to all those deported from Jerusalem to Babylon:

5 “Build houses and live in them, plant gardens and eat what they produce, marry and have children, seek wives for your sons and give your daughters in marriage, so that they too will have children. While there, increase in number; do not decrease. 7 Pull yourselves together for the welfare of the land to which I have sent you and intercede on its behalf as you pray to Yahweh; for its welfare will be your welfare.”

10 This is what Yahweh says, “When the seventy years allowed to Babylon have been completed I will come to you and fulfill my promise of restoring you back to this place. 11 For I know what my plans for you are, plans to save you and not to harm you, plans to give you a future and to give you hope.”

29.1 In the years from 598 to 587 B.C., while the people in Jerusalem are becoming more and more blind, Jeremiah wants to guide the exiles. There is a temptation for them to believe that things could revert to what they were before. There are even prophets among them who keep up the illusion of a quick defeat of Babylon. One of them sends letters to Jerusalem to have Jeremiah put in jail (vv. 24-28).

In fact, they have to accept defeat, to realize their unfaithfulness to Yahweh, which is the actual cause of their humiliation, and change their outlook. At that very moment another prophet, Ezekiel, who is a true prophet speaks in a similar way among the exiles.

A slow transformation is going to take place among the priests, the nobility, the artisans and the civil servants who are exiled and, after seventy years of exile, their children will return to Jerusalem as “the poor ones looking for Yahweh.”
And Yahweh says, “When you call on me I will listen. You will seek me and find me when you search for me with all your heart.” For Yahweh says, “I will let myself be found by you and I will gather you from among all the nations and from all the places where I have driven you; and bring you back to the place from which I sent you into exile.

Indeed you are trusting in prophets allegedly raised for you by Yahweh in Babylon. But this is the word of Yahweh:

Do not be deceived by the prophets and seers who are among you. Do not believe in their dreams or be confident in their illusions. For I did not send them and they take advantage of my name to foretell lies. As for the king who sits on the throne of David and all the people who live in this city (your kinsfolk who did not go into exile with you); thus says Yahweh God of Hosts, “I am sending sword, famine and plague against them. I will make them like rotten figs, so rotten they cannot be eaten.

I will pursue them with sword, famine and plague. They will be a horror for all the kingdoms of the earth, a curse, an abomination, a sign of desolation, mockery and ridicule among all the nations where I scatter them. For they did not heed my words when I sent them my servants, the prophets, again and again. They refused to pay attention.

As for you, exiles, whom I sent away from Jerusalem to Babylon, hear the word of Yahweh. This is what Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel says concerning Ahab son of Kolaiah and Zedekiah son of Maaseiah who prophesy lies in my name, “I will hand them over to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon and he will slay them before your eyes. This will give rise to a curse widely used by the captives from Judah in Babylon: ‘May the Lord treat you like Zedekiah and Ahab, who were roasted in the fire by the king of Babylon!’ for they have acted outrageously: they have committed adultery with their neighbors’ wives and have used my name to proclaim lies which I did not command them. I know it and have witnessed it,” declares Yahweh.

After that, Shemaiah of Nehelam sent letters in his own name to all the people in Jerusalem and to Zephaniah, son of Maaseiah the priest and to all the priests saying, “Yahweh has made you priest in place of Jehoiada to be in charge in the house of Yahweh to arrest every mad prophet and put him in chains with an iron collar around his neck. So why have you not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth, a would-be prophet in your midst? In this role he sent a message to us in Babylon: You will be there for a long time! Build houses and live in them; plant gardens and eat in them.”

When Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the hearing of the prophet Jeremiah, the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah,

“Send this message to all the exiles:

This is what Yahweh says concerning Shemaiah of Nehelam: Shemaiah prophesied although I did not send him; and he made you trust in lies. Because of that I will punish Shemaiah and his descendants; none of them will live to witness the blessings I will bestow on my people, for he incited my people to rebel against Yahweh.”

The restoration of the northern kingdom

This is another word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh:

Yahweh, God of Israel says, “Write in a book all that I have communicated to you, for the days are coming when I shall bring my captive people Israel and Judah back to the land I gave to their ancestors as their inheritance.”
4 These are words spoken by Yahweh to Israel:

5 We have heard cries of fear, terror and not peace!
6 Ask and see: Does a man bear children? Then why do I see every strong man with his hands on his hips like a woman in labor, every face turned a ghastly color?
7 How terrible that day! there is none to equal it!
It is a time of distress for Jacob, but he will be saved.

8 On that day,—declares Yahweh of Hosts—I will break the yoke around his neck and burst his bonds, that strangers may no longer enslave them. 9 They will instead serve Yahweh their God and David their king whom I will raise up for them.
10 Yahweh says, “Fear not, Jacob my servant. Be not dismayed, Israel, for I will rescue you and your descendants from that far-off land where you are captive. Jacob shall return and know peace, molested by no one.
11 I am with you to save you. I will utterly destroy the nations where you are scattered. You alone shall not be destroyed, but I will discipline you justly and not let you go unpunished.”
12 Yahweh says, “Your wound is incurable, your injury is grievous.
13 There is no one to plead your cause. There is a remedy for an ulcer but no healing for you!
14 All your lovers have forgotten you; they care nothing for you. For I struck you as an enemy does, with a cruel punishment, because of your great guilt and the wickedness of your sin.
15 Why cry out now that you are hurt? Is there no cure for your pain? Because of your great crime and grievous sin I have done this to you.
16 Yet all who devour you will be devoured. Your oppressors will be taken captive; your plunderers will be plundered and those who despise you will be despised.

18 Yahweh says, “I will restore my people into Jacob’s tents and have pity on his dwellings. The city will be rebuilt over its ruins and the palace restored on its proper place. 19 From them will come songs of praise and the sound of merrymaking. I will multiply them and they shall not be few. I will bestow honor on them and they shall not be despised. 20 Their children will be as before and their community will be established before me. I will ask their oppressors to account.
21 Their leader will be one of themselves, their ruler shall emerge from their midst. I will bring him close to me for who would dare to approach me? 22 You shall be my people and I shall be your God.”

23 See the storm of Yahweh bursting forth in fury; like the turmoil of a hurricane it sweeps down on the head of the wicked.
24 The fierce wrath of Yahweh will not turn away until he has done and accomplished the purpose of his heart. In the latter days you will understand this.

31 Yahweh declares that when that time comes he will be the God of all the families of Israel, and they will be his people.
2 Thus says Yahweh: The people who survived the sword have found grace in the desert. As Israel was seeking for his rest 3 Yahweh appeared from afar saying, I have loved you with a love everlasting, so I have kept for you my mercy. 4 I will restore you again, and you shall be rebuilt, O virgin Israel!
You will take up your tambourines and go out dancing joyfully. 5 You will plant vineyards again on the hills of Samaria, and the farmers who plant them will enjoy their fruit.
6 There shall be a day when watchmen will call out on the hills of Ephraim, “Come, let us go to Zion, to Yahweh our God!”
7 For Yahweh says this, “Shout with joy for Jacob; rejoice for the greatest of nations.
Proclaim your praise and say: ‘Yahweh has saved his people, the remnant of Israel!’
8 Look, I will bring them back from the land of the north, gather them from the ends of the earth, the lame and the blind,
He who scattered Israel now gathers them!

10 Hear the word of Yahweh, O nations, proclaim it on distant coast lands:
He who scattered Israel will gather them and guard them as a shepherd guards his flock.
11 For Yahweh has ransomed Jacob and redeemed him from the hand of his conqueror.

12 They shall come shouting for joy, while ascending Zion; they will come streaming to Yahweh’s blessings—the grain, the new wine and the oil, the young of the flocks and herds.
They will be like a well-watered garden; no more will they be afflicted.

13 Maidens will make merry and dance, young men and old as well.
I will turn their mourning into gladness, I will give them comfort and joy for sorrow.

14 I will fill the priests with abundance, and satisfy my people with my bounty—this is Yahweh’s word.

15 Thus speaks Yahweh: “In Ramah, a voice of mourning and great weeping is heard, Rachel wailing for her children and refusing to be consoled, for her children are no more.”

16 Yahweh says this to her: “Weep no more and wipe the tears of your eyes; your sorrow will have redress. They will come back from the enemy’s land.

17 There is hope for your descendants; your children will return to their own borders.

18 I heard Ephraim saying in grief: ‘You disciplined me like an untamed calf, and I have been disciplined. Bring me back, and I will return, for you are Yahweh, my God!’

19 Yes, I strayed, but I have repented. Now I understand and I beat my breast; I bear the disgrace of my youth, and I blush with shame and humiliation.’
20 Is not Ephraim my favored son, the child in whom I delight? Often have I threatened him, but I still remember him, and my heart yearns for him. I must show him mercy,” declares Yahweh.

21 Set up road signs, put up guideposts; focus your attention to the highway, the road by which you went. Return, O virgin Israel, return to these cities of yours. How long will you remain wandering, O unfaithful daughter? For Yahweh is creating something new on earth; the woman finds her husband again.”

Restoration of Judah

23 These are words of Yahweh, God of Hosts and God of Israel, “When I bring back the captives to the land of Judah and its towns, the people will once more use the expression: ‘Yahweh bless you, O dwelling of righteousness, holy mountain!’

24 All Judah and its towns, the farmer and those who move about with their herds will live there in peace. I will refresh the weary and lift up the downhearted.”

25 Then I awoke and looked around; my sleep had been peaceful.

27 “The days are coming—this is the word of Yahweh—when I shall sow the people of Israel and the people of Judah with the seed of man and of beasts. It will happen that just as I watched over them to uproot and overthrow, to destroy and bring disaster, so shall I likewise build and plant—word of Yahweh.

29 No longer will it be said: ‘The parents have eaten sour grapes and the children’s teeth are set on edge.’

30 Instead, everyone will die because of their own sin; whoever eats sour grapes will have his teeth set on edge!

The new Covenant

31 The time is coming—it is Yahweh who speaks—when I will forge a new Covenant with the people of Israel and the people of Judah. It will not be like the one I made with their ancestors when I took them by the hand and led them out of Egypt. For Yahweh is creating something new on earth; the woman finds her husband again.”

32 These are words of Yahweh, God of Hosts and God of Israel, “When I bring back the captives to the land of Judah and its towns, the people will once more use the expression: ‘Yahweh bless you, O dwelling of righteousness, holy mountain!’

33 Then I awoke and looked around; my sleep had been peaceful.

34 The expression the prophet uses, “a new Covenant” does not mean that God is forsaking his former promises to Israel. It clearly illustrates the characteristic of the Covenant which God wants to establish between him and humanity through Israel. This novelty is that of love, because true love is always fresh and new. Although the people of God had broken the Covenant, God who is always faithful, will respond by a gift, through his son, born of Mary.

I will make another Covenant with Israel (v. 31). Jeremiah predicts the day when Yahweh will reveal himself to all believers as he had done with his great prophets. The law will be in their hearts and the hand of God will keep them on the right path, as was the case with Jeremiah when he doubted.

They broke my Covenant (v. 32). Actually, this Covenant between Yahweh and Israel on Sinai had failed, through Israel’s fault, not Yahweh’s. But it is not a matter of renewing it as Joshua, Samuel, Hezekiah and Josiah had done so many times. Nor is it a matter of making another one like it, since this old Covenant had already proven its weakness: people are sinful and unable to escape from their sins. Moreover, no laws, or human solidarity, or any form of education can bring God’s grace to a nation or a collectivity and preserve them in the faith. Only a personal accepting of the divine Truth makes one a true believer. The true people of God cannot be confused with any people or human community; only those who are reborn will become part of God’s people.

I will put my law in their hearts (v. 33). Now, Jeremiah knows the secret of the New Covenant. For he is aware of the change which they broke my Covenant although I was their Master, Yahweh declares.

33 This is the Covenant I shall make with Israel after that time: I will put my law within them and write it on their hearts; I will be their God and they will be my people.

34 And they will not have to teach each other, neighbor or brother, saying: ‘Know Yahweh,’ because they will all know me, from the greatest to the lowliest, for I will forgive their wrongdoing and no longer remember their sin.’

35 This is the word of Yahweh, he who gives the sun for light during the day and orders the moon and the stars to give light at night, he who stirs the sea and makes the waves roar, and who is called Yahweh, God of Hosts:

36 “Only if these laws vanish from my sight,—says Yahweh—will the descendants of Israel cease to be a nation before me.

37 Only when the skies above are measured and the foundations of the earth are found below, only then will I reject the descendants of Israel because of what they have done—word of Yahweh.

38 Behold, the days are coming when the city will be rebuilt for Yahweh from the Tower of Hananel to the Corner Gate and the measuring tape will stretch from there to the hill of Gareb and then turn to Goah.

39 The whole valley where dead bodies and ashes are thrown and all the fields as far as the brook of Kidron and the corner of the Horse Gate on the east will be holy to Yahweh. Never again will the city be uprooted, never again destroyed.”

Jeremiah buys a field

32 • 1 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh in the tenth year of Zedekiah’s reign as king of Judah, the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar. 2 At that time the army of the king of Babylon was besieging Jerusalem and the prophet Jeremiah was imprisoned in the guard’s courtyard of the royal palace of Judah.

3 Zedekiah king of Judah had him shut up after saying to him, “Why do you prophesy in the Name of Yahweh as you do? Yes, you said: ‘I am going to hand this city to the king of Babylon who will take it. 4 And king Zedekiah will not escape from the Chaldeans; he will be delivered into the power of the king of Babylon, speak face to face to him and see him with his own eyes. 5 Zedekiah will be brought to Babylon where he will remain until I deal with him. In any case your fight against the Chaldeans is hopeless’.”

6 So at that time the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah: 7 “Hanamel, son of your uncle Shallum, is going to visit you and ask you to buy his field at Anathoth as it is your right to do so; buy it for yourself.’

occurred in him when Yahweh made him a prophet. Then, he discovered an intimate relationship with God which is entirely different from a religion of mere practices.

I will forgive their sins (v. 34). A New Covenant will be achieved through the death of Christ on the cross for the forgiveness of sins. In celebrating the Last Supper, Jesus says: “This cup is the New Covenant sealed in my blood” (Lk 22:20). The author of the Letter to the Hebrews will develop the meaning of the New Covenant (see Heb 8:8 and 10:16).

The Gospel of John will also clarify the meaning of they will all know me: in the Christian faith, not everyone receives personal revelations, but everyone is guided by the Father to Christ in whom are found all the treasures of knowledge and wisdom.

Perhaps Jeremiah himself had not seen all the consequences of this revelation, but it certainly throws a decisive light on the history of the people of Israel. We understand that God’s teaching, his way of leading and instructing his people through events was a pedagogy, leading to a definitive truth to be given through Christ and through the gift of the Spirit. It is understandable that Jesus and his apostles so often recalled the message of the prophets to justify the revolution of the Gospel and the birth of a Church rooted in the Jewish people but now independent of its national history.

• 32.1 During the second siege and prior to the destruction of Jerusalem, Jeremiah buys a field as if to prove that the land has not lost its worth; one day the fallen nation will rise again. The end of the chapter (32:37) renews for Judah the same promise of the New Covenant which Jeremiah had predicted for Israel a few years before (Chaps. 30 and 31:31).
I then understood this was the word of Yahweh and I bought the field from Hanamel and I weighed out the silver for it, seventeen shekels of silver. Then I signed and sealed the deed, had it witnessed and the silver weighed on the scales. Then I took the deed of purchase (the sealed copy containing the terms and conditions and the open copy). I gave the deed of purchase to Baruch, son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, in the presence of Hanamel, my uncle, and the witnesses who signed the deed, and before all the Jews who were sitting in the court of the guard. Then in their presence I commanded Baruch:

This is what Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel says: Take these documents, both the sealed and the unsealed copies of the deed of purchase. Place them in an earthenware jar so that they may last a long time for Yahweh God of Hosts and God of Israel says this: houses, fields and vineyards will again be bought in this land.”

Prayer of Jeremiah

When I had given the deed of purchase to Baruch son of Neriah, I prayed to Yahweh:

Ah, Lord Yahweh, you have made the heavens and the earth with your great power and mighty deeds. Nothing is impossible to you! You show mercy to thousands but bring the punishment for the parents’ sins on their children. Great and Mighty, Yahweh God of Hosts is your name! You are great in planning and mighty in deeds, your eyes follow the ways of all the humans, and you give to each one according to his conduct and the fruit of their actions.

You have continually worked signs and wonders, in the land of Egypt, in Israel and among all humankind. Hence you have become famous, as we see today. You brought your people from the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with your great power and your mighty deeds.

You gave your people this land which you had promised with an oath to their ancestors, a land flowing with milk and honey. But as soon as they entered and conquered it, they did not listen to you and did not walk according to your law. They refused to do what you commanded and you brought great misfortune on them. You see, O Yahweh, the mounds built up to take the city are reaching it. And the city exhausted by the sword, famine and plague will be given over to the Chaldeans. What you foretold has happened as you can now see! And yet you told me, O Lord Yahweh, to buy a field with silver and have the purchase witnessed in the very days the city is falling to the Chaldeans!

God’s answer

The word of Yahweh then came to Jeremiah: “I am Yahweh, the God of all humankind. Is there anything impossible for me? Therefore this is what Yahweh says: I am about to hand the city over to the Chaldeans and Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon who will take it. The Chaldeans who are attacking the city will come in and set it on fire. They will burn the houses where the people aroused my anger by burning incense to Baal and pouring drink offerings to foreign gods. For the people of Israel and Judah have done nothing but evil in my sight from their youth.

All they did was to arouse my anger with the work of their hands—it is Yahweh who speaks—for this city has so aroused my anger and fury from the time it was built to this day, that I must remove it from my sight. It is on account of all the evil the people of Israel and Judah have done to anger me—they, their kings and princes, their priests and prophets, the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

They turned their backs to me and not their faces. Although I taught them time and time again they did not listen, nor have they learned the lesson. They even put their idols in the Sanctuary that houses my name to defile it. They built high places to Baal in the valley of Ben-Hinnom where they worshiped Baal and sacrificed their sons and daughters to Moloch. This I never commanded; nor did I ever think they could do such a detestable thing, and so make Judah so sinful.

I will bring them back

As you say, this city exhausted by the sword, famine and plague will be handed over to the king of Babylon. But now, listen to what Yahweh the God of Israel says: “See, I am going to gather them from all the countries where I scattered them in my anger, fury and great wrath.
I will bring them back to this place and have them live in safety. They will be my people and I shall be their God.

I will have them think and act in another way, so that they may always fear me, for their own good and the good of their children.

I will forge an eternal Covenant with them by which I shall never cease to do them good; and I shall place my fear in their heart so that they may never turn away from me.

I shall rejoice in doing them good; and I shall plant them securely in this land with all my heart and soul.

And Yahweh says, “Just as I brought great disaster on this people, so shall I bring them all the happiness I promised them. Then fields will be bought in this land about which you say that it is a wasteland without people or animals and given over to the Chaldeans.

Fields will be bought for silver, and deeds written and sealed and witnessed in the territory of Benjamin and the region around Jerusalem, in the towns of Judah, in the towns of the hill country, in the towns of Shephelah and those of the south.

Yes, I will bring back their captives”—word of Yahweh.

Another promise of restoration

When Jeremiah was still detained in the guard’s court the word of Yahweh came to him a second time:

He who made the earth, who fashioned and established it, he whose Name is Yahweh is speaking to you,

“Call me and I shall answer. I will reveal to you great and mysterious things you have not known.”

For this is what Yahweh God of Israel says, “You have seen how the houses of Jerusalem and the royal palace of Judah were demolished and used as a defense against the siege mounds in the fighting against the Chaldeans. But they have been filled with dead bodies, for I slew these people in the fury of my anger when I no longer looked to this city because of their wickedness.

However I will apply a remedy for its healing. I will cure them and make them enjoy peace and truth. I will bring back the captives of Judah and Israel and rebuild them as before. I will cleanse them from the guilt of their sin against me and their infidelity. This city will be for me a cause of joy, praise and glory in the sight of all the nations of the earth, when they hear of all the good I do for them. They will fear and tremble when they see all the good and all the peace I provide for them.”

Thus says Yahweh, “You say of this city that it is a wasteland without humans or animals. But in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem which are ruins without people or animals there will be heard again the sound of merriment and happiness, the song of the newlywed and the voice of those who pray: ‘Praise to Yahweh God of Hosts, for Yahweh is good and his love endures forever!’ When I restore the fortune of the land as it was before,” says Yahweh, “the voice of those who sing praise in the house of Yahweh will be heard.”

Thus says Yahweh God of Hosts, “In this place, which is a wasteland without people or animals and in all its towns, there will once again be pastures where the shepherds will tend their flocks.

In the towns of the hill country, Shephelah, and the south, in the territory of Benjamin, and the villages around Jerusalem, and in the towns of Judah, flocks will pass under the hand of the one who counts them”—word of Yahweh.

Promises to David’s descendants

“The days are coming when I shall fulfill the promise that I made in favor of Israel and Judah.

In those days and at that time I will cause to sprout the shoot of righteousness from David’s line; he will practice justice and righteousness in the land. In those days Judah will experience salvation and Jerusalem will live in safety. He will be called Yahweh-Our-Righteousness.”

For Yahweh says, “David will never be without a descendant seated on the throne of Israel, nor will the priests and Levites be left without descendants to stand before me and to present burnt offerings, grain offerings and sacrifices.”

The word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah as follows, “If you are able to break my Covenant with the day or my Covenant with the night so that night and day would not follow at their appointed times, then might my Covenant with David my servant be broken. Only then would there be no descendant to reign on his throne and no priests or Levites to minister before me.
22 Just as the stars in the sky or the sand on the seashore cannot be counted, to the same extent shall I multiply the descendants of David and the Levites who minister before me.”

23 Again the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah, 24 “Have you not noticed what these people say: ‘Yahweh has rejected the two kingdoms he chose.’ So they despise my people, and no longer consider them a nation. 25 But Yahweh says: If I have not established my Covenant with day and night, if I have not fixed the laws of the heavens and the earth, 26 then I can reject the descendants of Jacob and David my servant and not take from among them rulers for the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. For I am going to restore their fortune and show compassion on them.”

A promise to Zedekiah

34 • This was the word of Yahweh addressed to Jeremiah when Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and his army as well as all the kingdoms of the earth that were under his dominion, and all the peoples were fighting against Jerusalem and all the cities of Judah.

2 This is the word of Yahweh, God of Israel, “Go and say this to Zedekiah king of Judah: ‘See, I am giving this city to the king of Babylon and he will set it on fire. You will not escape from his hands but will surely be captured and given over to him. You will see him face to face and speak directly to him and you will go to Babylon.’

3 Just listen, Zedekiah, king of Judah, to the word of Yahweh! This is what Yahweh says about you, “You will not be slain by the sword; 5 no, you will die in peace. As they made funeral pyres in honor of your ancestors, former kings, so will they make a fire in your honor and lament, ‘Alas, my master!’—word of Yahweh.”

6 Then Jeremiah the prophet gave this message to Zedekiah, king of Judah in Jerusalem. 7 He did this while the army of the king of Babylon was attacking Jerusalem and the cities of Lachish and Azekah. He was attacking these cities because they were the only fortified cities of Judah which were still holding out.

About the liberated slaves

8 The word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah after king Zedekiah had made a treaty with all the people of Jerusalem to proclaim freedom for the slaves. 9 Everyone was to free his Hebrew slaves, male and female, so that no fellow Jew would be kept in bondage.

10 The princes and all the citizens agreed to this. They made a treaty and so set them free. 11 Yet they changed their minds afterward and brought back the slaves they had freed and used them as slaves again.

12 Then the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah, 13 “Yahweh the God of Israel says this: I made a Covenant with your ancestors the day I brought them out of Egypt from the house of slavery and I said: 14 At the end of every seven years you will free any Hebrews who have been sold to you and have served you for six years; you are to send them free from your services. But your ancestors did not listen and paid no attention. 15 Recently you repented and did what was right in my sight (see Dt 15:12) during which slaves of Hebrew descent were to be given their freedom.

The truth is that the social laws were poorly observed in those days. And so, before the threat of siege, the most believing among the people of Jerusalem realized that the best way to obtain God’s blessing would be to follow the social laws of the Scriptures and to liberate their slaves.

Yahweh rises in favor of the oppressed: he will destroy his own country if that is necessary to punish those who so despise their brothers and sisters.
when each one proclaimed liberty to one another; and you made a Covenant with me in the house where my name rests. 16 But now you have gone back on your word and profaned my name. You have brought back your slaves, male and female, to whom you had given complete freedom and you have again reduced them to slavery.

17 That is why Yahweh says: Since you have not obeyed me in proclaiming freedom for your friends and neighbors I now proclaim ‘freedom’ for you, freedom to fall by the sword, plague and famine. I will make you detestable to every kingdom on earth.

18 Those who have sinned against my Covenant, who have not observed the terms of the alliance they made before me, I will liken them to the calf they cut in two and then walked between its halves. 19 The princes of Judah and Jerusalem, the court officials, the priests and all the people of the land who walked between the pieces of the calf, 20 I will hand them over to their enemies. Their corpses will serve as food for the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth.

21 Zedekiah and his officials I will give over to the hands of their enemies. You saw the army of the king of Babylon withdrawing from you. 22 But now I am issuing an order to bring them back to this city. They will attack and capture the city and set it on fire. As for the towns of Judah I will reduce them to a wasteland without inhabitants.”

The example given by the Rechabites

1 A message from Yahweh came to Jeremiah in the days of Josiah’s son Jehoiakim, king of Judah: 2 “Go to the Rechabite family; speak to them and bring them to a room in the house of Yahweh; then give them wine to drink.”

3 So I went to get Jaazaniah, son of Jeremiah, son of Habazziniah, his brothers and sons and all the household of the Rechabites. 4 I brought them to the house of Yahweh, into the room of the sons of Hanan, son of Igdaliah, the man of God. It was close to the room of the leaders which is above the room of the doorkeeper Maasekah, son of Shallum. 5 I then placed pitchers of wine and cups before the Rechabites and told them, “Drink wine!”

6 But they answered, “We don’t drink wine because our father Jonadab son of Rechab commanded us: ‘Never drink wine, you, as well as your children;’ 7 don’t build a house and don’t sow seeds. You shall not plant or own a vineyard; do nothing like that; but live in tents all your days so that you may live for a long time in the land where you dwell!”

8 We have observed all the commands of our father Jonadab, son of Rechab, always abstaining from wine, we, our wives, our sons and daughters. 9 We haven’t built houses to live in and we have no vineyards, fields or seeds. 10 We live in tents and we obey and practice all that our father Jonadab ordered us.

11 But when king Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon attacked the land, we said: “Come, we shall go to Jerusalem to escape from the army of the Chaldeans and the army of the Arameans. This is why now we stay in Jerusalem.”

12 Yahweh spoke again to Jeremiah, 13 “Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel bids you to go and tell the people of Judah and the citizens of Jerusalem: Will you reject a correction and refuse what I say?—word of Yahweh. 14 Jonadab son of Rechab commanded his children not to drink wine, and his words have been observed; to this day they have obeyed their father by not taking wine. As for you, I have spoken to you time and time again and you have not listened to me! 15 I have sent you my servants the prophets again and again saying: ‘Turn away from your wickedness, reform your way of life and do not follow other gods to serve them. Then you will live in the land that I gave you and your ancestors.’ But you neither heeded nor listened to me. 16 The descendants of Jonadab son of Rechab have carried out their father’s order; but this nation has not obeyed me.”

17 Therefore this is what Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel says,
“I am going to bring on Judah and on everyone living in Jerusalem all the disaster I foretold, because I spoke and they would not listen; I called and they would not respond.”

18 Then Jeremiah said to the Rechabites, “This is what Yahweh God of Hosts and God of Israel says: ‘Because you have been obedient to your father Jonadab and observed all his instructions, because you have acted according to his commands, 19 because of that—word of Yahweh—Jonadab shall always have a descendant to stand before me.”

THE SUFFERINGS OF JEREMIAH

The scroll is burned

1 This word from Yahweh came to Jeremiah in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah.

2 “Get a scroll and write on it all that I have spoken to you concerning Jerusalem, Judah and all the nations, from the first day I spoke to you in the time of Josiah until this day. 3 Perhaps when the people of Judah hear of all the afflictions I intend to send them, to make each of them turn away, they would decide to turn from their wicked ways. Hence I may forgive their wickedness and sin.”

4 Jeremiah then called Baruch, son of Neriah, who at his dictation wrote down on the scroll all the words Yahweh had spoken to him.

5 Then Jeremiah commanded Baruch, “I am in jail and cannot go to Yahweh’s house. So you go to Yahweh’s house on a day of fasting, and read publicly all that you wrote as I dictated. Read it to all the people of Judah who come in from their towns. Perhaps they will entreat Yahweh and each one will turn from his wickedness, for great is the wrath of Yahweh and the punishment with which he has threatened this people.”

6 So Baruch, Neriah’s son, did all that the prophet Jeremiah had commanded about this reading in the house of Yahweh.

7 In the ninth month of the fifth year of Josiah’s son Jehoiakim, king of Judah, a fast before Yahweh was proclaimed to all the people in Jerusalem and all the people who came from the towns of Judah.

8 Then in the house of Yahweh Baruch read publicly the words of Jeremiah written in the scroll. 9 This he did in the room of the secretary Gemariah, Shapan’s son, in the upper court, at the entry of the New Gate of the house of Yahweh.

10 When Micaiah son of Gemariah, son of Shaphan heard all of Yahweh’s words written on the scroll 12 he went to the secretary’s room in the king’s house where all the officials were sitting—Elishama, the secretary, Delaiah, son of Shemaiah; Elnathan, son of Acbor; Gemariah, son of Shaphan; Zedekiah, son of Hananiah, and the rest of the officials.

13 Micaiah told them all that he had heard when Baruch read the contents of the scroll to the people. 14 Then all the officials sent Jehudi, son of Netaniah, the son of Shelemiah, the son of Cushi, to say to Baruch, “Bring the scroll from which you read to all the people and come!” So Baruch went with the scroll in his hand.

36.1 Chapters 36–44 could be called “Jeremiah’s sufferings:” they describe the fate of the prophet during the sieges of the years 598 and 587 B.C. and after the destruction of Jerusalem. These are the last days of the kingdom of Judah. The events briefly related at the end of the second Book of Kings take on a new meaning here because someone with much insight is experiencing them. In the midst of the masses who suffer without understanding, Jeremiah knows what God’s plans are. These people, who neither believe nor obey the Lord, must lose their material illusions, and then later the best of their children will come to a more profound faith.

Nevertheless, Jeremiah is crushed by his people’s disaster. After having suffered because of them, he is now suffering with them and he becomes the figure of the suffering Savior, Christ.

Baruch, son of Neriah, was secretary (v. 26), something like the chancellor of the king. He was also Jeremiah’s secretary and he may have written these chapters.

Verse 23: The episode of the burned scroll takes place during the first blockade. Let us remember that in those days people wrote on strips of parchment, or sheepskin, which were rolled up.
And we cannot say that these are mistakes on the part of the prophet since his attitude cannot be separated from his message. Two reasons clarify Jeremiah's position:

– On one hand, the Jewish nationalists do not know what God wants to do with Israel in the future. They see only defeat and slavery and they prefer to fight to death. Jeremiah, however, knows the extraordinary future that Yahweh has in store for Israel. Israel bears the hopes of the future world, and so they must not disappear in a hopeless struggle.

– On the other hand, the Jewish leaders focus only on the appearances of freedom and patriotism. To them, everything seems lost if they submit to foreign authority. Jeremiah, for his words Baruch had written as Jeremiah dictated, "Take another scroll and write on it all the words that were on the first one which Jehoiakim burned. And tell Jehoiakim this message of Yahweh: You have burned the scroll and you said: This man dared to write that the king of Babylon will certainly destroy this land and wipe away from it men and animals! That is why Yahweh has spoken against Jehoiakim, king of Judah: Not one of his descendants will sit on the throne of David. His dead body will be exposed to the heat of day and the chill of night. I will ask him to account, as well as his children, and his attendants for their wickedness. I will pour out on them all the disasters; and it will be the same for the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem I have foretold against them, because they have paid no attention.”

Zedekiah consults Jeremiah

Josiah’s Zedekiah was appointed by Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon to be king of Judah in the place of Jehoiakim son of Jehoiakim. But neither he, nor his attendants, nor the people of the land paid attention to the words of Yahweh spoken through Jeremiah the prophet.

King Zedekiah sent Jehucal, son of Shelemiah, with the priest Zehaniah, son of Maaseiah, to Jeremiah to say, “Intercede for us with Yahweh our God!” At that time Jeremiah had not yet been impris-
JEREMIAH 38

11 While the Chaldean army was withdrawing from Jerusalem because of the advance of Pharaoh’s troops, Jeremiah left Jerusalem to go to the territory of Benjamin to receive an inheritance there. But upon reaching the Benjamin Gate he was stopped by a sentry named Irijah, son of Shelemiah, son of Hananiah who said, “You are deserting to the Babylonians!”

12 Jeremiah answered, “There’s no truth to that!” But Irijah did not listen. He nabbed Jeremiah and brought him to the officials. They were so angry with Jeremiah, they beat him and locked him in the house of Jonathan the secretary, which had been transformed into a prison.

13 Jeremiah was put in the dungeon cells and was kept there for a number of days. 17 Then king Zedekiah sent for him and secretly questioned him in his house: “Is there any word from Yahweh?” Jeremiah replied, “Yes, there is!” and added, “You will be handed over to the king of Babylon!”

18 Then Jeremiah said to king Zedekiah, “What wrong have I done to you, to your servants or to the people that you should have me imprisoned? Where are your prophets 20 who said to you: ‘The king of Babylon will never come to attack you and destroy this land?’ Now listen to me, my lord king! Take heed of my plea and do not send me back to the house of Jonathan the secretary, for there I am doomed to die!”

21 So king Zedekiah ordered that Jeremiah be transferred to the guard’s court and that every day he be supplied with a loaf of bread from the bakers’ street until there was no more bread. So Jeremiah remained in the guard’s court.

38 1 Shephatiah son of Mattan, Gedaliah son of Pashhur, son of Malchiah, heard what Jeremiah said publicly in the Name of Yahweh: “Anyone who stays in the city will perish by the sword, famine and plague, but whoever surrenders to the Chaldeans will survive although he may lose everything. 3 For Yahweh has spoken: I have handed over this city to the king of Babylon and he will take it.”

Put in modern terms, Jeremiah’s attitude can be summarized like:

Do not insist on fighting for causes or institutions which are no longer relevant to a world which has undergone irreversible changes and in which God calls us to a different mission.

Know that a people’s true independence is seen in their moral and cultural independence. It would be tragic if their children, dazzled by a foreign way of life, were to sacrifice their traditional moral values, or in a subservient way adopt norms and forms of development imposed from outside.

oned and he was still going about among the people. 5 Pharaoh’s army had come out of Egypt and when the Chaldeans heard of this, they withdrew from Jerusalem.

6 Then the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah the prophet: 7 “Yahweh the God of Israel has spoken. Say this to the king of Judah who sent you to consult me: Pharaoh’s army which was on its way to help you is about to return to its own land, 8 and the Chaldeans will come back and attack this city. They will capture it and set it on fire.

9 Do not deceive yourselves by saying that the Chaldeans are not to come back, because they surely will. 10 Even if you had defeated the whole Chaldean army and they were left with only wounded men, they would all come out of their tents and set fire to this city.”

Jeremiah in the well

part, focuses on the heart. To be Jewish means to preserve Israel’s ideals and reasons for living; to be free means to serve Yahweh alone. And so, it is essential to him that his compatriots do not become contaminated by the gods and the false values of the Chaldeans; by comparison, to submit to the yoke of a Chaldean master seems a much lesser evil. Besides, Jeremiah shares the ideas expressed particularly in the Book of Judges: if Israel keeps faith and observes the Law, sooner or later it will recover its independence and return home.
4Then the officials told the king, “This man should be put to death, because he is weakening the will of the fighting men and the people left in the city. In fact he is not out to save the people but to do harm.” 5King Zedekiah said, “His life is in your hands for the king has no power against you.”

6So they took Jeremiah and pushed him into the cistern of Malchiah, the king’s son, in the guard’s court. They lowered him by means of ropes. There was no water in the cistern but only mud; and Jeremiah sank into the mud.

7Ebedmelech, an Ethiopian official of the king’s house, heard that they had lowered Jeremiah in the cistern. While the king was sitting at the Benjamin Gate, 8Ebedmelech went and spoke to him, “My lord king! These men have acted wickedly in all they did to Jeremiah the prophet. They threw him into the cistern where he will die.”

9So the king ordered Ebedmelech the Ethiopian: “Take three men with you from here, and draw Jeremiah the prophet out from the cistern before he dies.”

10Ebedmelech took the men with him and went into the king’s house beneath the treasury. There he got pieces of rags and old clothes which he lowered by means of ropes to Jeremiah in the cistern. 11Ebedmelech said to Jeremiah, “Put the pieces of rags and old clothes under your armpits, over the ropes.” This Jeremiah did. 12Then Jeremiah was pulled up from the cistern by means of the ropes and was brought to the guard’s court to stay there.

14King Zedekiah sent for Jeremiah the prophet and received him at the third entrance of Yahweh’s house and there said to him, “I am going to ask you a question; hide nothing from me!” Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, 15“If I tell you something, won’t you put me to death? And if I advice you, will you listen to me?” 16King Zedekiah swore secretly to Jeremiah: “As Yahweh lives who gave us a soul, I will not have you die and I will not hand you over to those who want to kill you.”

17Jeremiah told king Zedekiah, “This is what Yahweh God of Hosts and God of Israel says: If you surrender to the officers of the king of Babylon you will survive and the city will not be burned. You and your household will live. 18But if you surrender not to the king of Babylon, this very city will be handed over to the Chaldeans and they will set it on fire. For your part, you will not escape.”

19King Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, “I am afraid of the people of Judah who have surrendered to the Chaldeans. I fear the Chaldeans will give me over to them and they will ill-treat me.” 20Jeremiah said, “They will not hand you over. Listen to what Yahweh says to you through me; it will be well with you and you will live. 21But if you refuse to surrender, this is what Yahweh has let me see:

22All the women left in your palace will be handed over to the officers of the king of Babylon and will sing this song: ‘Your friends have deceived and overcome you. When your feet have sunk into the mud, they turn away from you!’ 23All your wives and children shall be led out to the Chaldeans and you will not escape from them. You will be nabbed by the king of Babylon and this city will be burned down!”

24Then king Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, “Let no one know about this conversation lest you will die.” 25If the officials hear that I have spoken with you, and if they come to you, and ask you what I spoke of to you, even though they threaten you, 26 you will say to them: I only made a petition to the king not to send me back to the house of Jonathan to die.”

27 All the officials came to Jeremiah and questioned him. He replied just as the king had instructed him, and they said no more since no one had overheard the conversation.

28 But Jeremiah remained in the guard’s court until the day Jerusalem was taken.

The fall of Jerusalem and the fate of Jeremiah

2K 25: 1-21; Jer 52:1-6

In the tenth month of the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came with his entire army and they besieged Jerusalem. On the ninth day of the fourth month in Zedekiah’s eleventh year a breach was made in the city wall. All the officials of the king of Babylon entered and took their seats at the Middle Gate: Nergal-Sherazer of Samgar, Sarsekim chief officer, Nergal-Sherazer a high official and all the officials of the king of Babylon.

Upon seeing this, king Zedekiah of Judah and all the military fled from the city by night, going out by way of the king’s garden, through the gate between the two walls, in the direction of the Arabah. But the Chaldean army chased them and caught up with Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho. They took him and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath. There Nebuchadnezzar passed sentence on him. The king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah in his presence and all the nobles of Judah. He gouged out Zedekiah’s eyes and bound him with a double bronze chain to take him to Babylon.

The Chaldeans burned the king’s palace along with the peoples’ abodes and then broke down the walls of Jerusalem. Nebuzaradan, commander of the guards, deported to Babylon the remainder of the people who stayed in the city, as well as those who had deserted to his side, and those craftsmen who were still there. As for the poorest people who owned nothing, Nebuzaradan left them, at that time, in the land of Judah, giving them vineyards and fields.

Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had given orders about Jeremiah to Nebuzaradan chief of the guards: “Take him and look after him; do him no harm but deal with him just as he tells you.” Nebuzaradan, the captain of the royal guards, Nebushazban, who was a chief officer, Nergal-Sherazer, who was a high official and all the other officers of the king of Babylon sent and had Jeremiah brought from the courtyard of the guard house. They turned him over to Gedaliah, the son of Ahikam and the grandson of Shaphan to take him home with him. But Jeremiah stayed among the people.

Reward for Ebedmelek

• 15 Now the word of Yahweh had come to Jeremiah while he was imprisoned in the guard’s court: “Go and talk to Ebedmelek the Ethiopian: Tell him this word of Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel: You see, on that day that I am about to carry out what I have foretold in the past; disaster and not prosperity for this city; I will save you on that day—word of Yahweh—and you will not be handed over to those whom you fear. For I will certainly save you and you will not perish by the sword. You will be able to escape and live because you have trusted me—it is Yahweh who speaks.”

Jeremiah is freed

The word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah after Nebuzaradan, commander of the guards, had released him at Ramah when he had taken him, bound in chains, with those to be deported from Jerusalem and Judah to Babylon. The commander of the guards took Jeremiah and said to him, “Yahweh your God foretold this calamity for this place. Now he has implemented what he then said he would do, because you have sinned against him and have not listened to him. But I have removed today, the fetters off your hands and releasing you to be free... You may wish to go with me to Babylon and I will take care of you. However I am not obliging you. If you decide not to go, you have the choice to go wherever you like in this land.” Nebuzaradan added, “Why don’t you go back to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan? He has been appointed governor over the towns of Judah by the king of Babylon. You could stay with him among your people. Yet go wherever it seems right for you to go.” The commander of the guards gave him provisions and a gift and set him on his way. And so Jeremiah went to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, who was residing at Mizpah. He stayed with him among the people who were left in the land.

7 Now all the army chiefs in the open country with their men heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam to be governor over the land and put him in charge of the men, women and children and the lowliest of the people who had not been deported to Babylon. These men came to Gedaliah at Mizpah: Ishmael son of Nethaniah, Johanan and Jonathan the sons of Kareah, Seraiah son of Tanhumeth, the sons of Ephai the Netophathite and Jaazaniah son of the Maacathite and their men.

Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan swore to them and their men: “Don’t be afraid to serve the Chaldeans; remain in the country, serve the king of Babylon and all will be well with you. As for me, I am based here in Mizpah and I am your representative with the Chaldeans who settle at this place. For your part gather wine, fruit and oil; store it in your vessels and stay in the towns you have occupied.”

11 The Jews who were in Moab, Ammon, Edom and in the other lands also learned that the king of Babylon had left a remnant of the population and that he had placed over them Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan. All of these Jews returned from the places where they had been dispersed and came to Gedaliah at Mizpah in the land of Judah. There they gathered wine and fruit in great quantities.

Gedaliah murdered

13 Johanan son of Kareah and all the chiefs of guerrilla warfare came to Gedaliah at Mizpah 14 and said, “Don’t you know that Baalis, king of the Ammonites has commissioned Ishmael son of Nethaniah to assassinate you?” But Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, did not believe him.

Then Johanan spoke secretly to Gedaliah at Mizpah, “Let me go and kill Ishmael son of Nethaniah without anyone knowing. Don’t allow him to kill you, lest all the Jews assembled with you be dispersed and the rest of Judah perish.” But Gedaliah son of Ahikam said to Johanan son of Kareah, “Don’t do that, because what you have said about Ishmael is a lie.”

1 It was the seventh month when Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elshama, a member of the royal family who had been chief officer of the king, came with ten men to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan at Mizpah. While they were eating together Ishmael and the men with him stood up and slew Gedaliah with the sword, thus killing the man whom the king of Babylon had appointed governor of the land.

Ishmael also killed the Jews who were with Gedaliah at Mizpah as well as the Chaldean soldiers who were there.

Two days after the assassination of Gedaliah and before anyone had heard of it, eighty men from Shechem, Shiloh and Samaria arrived with beards shaved, torn clothes and their bodies slashed, carrying offerings and incense to the house of Yahweh.

Ishmael son of Nethaniah left Mizpah to meet them weeping as they went. He said to them, “Come along to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam.” But as soon as he came to the center of the town, Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, and the men with him, killed them and threw their bodies into a cistern. Chapters 42–44 show us Jeremiah fighting his people for the last time. There is not even one faction that listens to the prophet. Those favoring resistance to the Chaldeans, as well as those in favor of submission, follow their own whims and refuse to obey Yahweh.
Ten of these men, however, said to Ishmael, “Don’t kill us for we have provisions hidden in the country, grain, oil barley and honey.” These Ishmael did not kill with the others.

The cistern where Ishmael had thrown the corpses of these people he had killed was the large cistern built by king Asa when he had to defend himself against Baashaking of Israel. Ishmael son of Nethaniah filled it with their corpses.

Ishmael took captive the small population of Mizpah, the royal princesses whom Nebuzaradan, commander of the bodyguard had left in the care of Gedaliah. Ishmael obliged them to follow him and set out for the land of the Ammonites.

When Johanan son of Kareah, and the army officers with him, heard of the crimes of Ishmael, they assembled their men and set off to fight Ishmael. They caught up with him at the great pool of Gibeon.

As soon as the people Ishmael had taken by force from Mizpah saw Johanan, son of Kareah and the army officers with him, they rejoiced and turned back to join Johanan. In the meantime, Ishmael was able to flee from Johanan with eight men and went to the Ammonites.

Then Johanan, and the army officers with him, took the people he had rescued from Ishmael, son of Nethaniah. They were those men, women, children and court officials that Ishmael carried off by force from Mizpah after slaying Gedaliah. Johanan brought them from Gibeon, and they stayed at Geruth Chimham near Bethlehem. They planned to go on later towards Egypt for fear of the Chaldeans, because Ishmael had slain Gedaliah, who was appointed governor of the land by the king of Babylon.

The flight to Egypt

Then the army officers, especially Johanan, son of Kareah and Jeza- niah son of Hoshiaiah, and all the people from the smallest to the greatest came to speak to Jeremiah: “Listen to our plea and pray to Yahweh our God for us, this remnant of people, because, really, we are few, from many, as you can see. May Yahweh your God show us the way we should go and what we should do.”

Jeremiah the prophet answered them, “I have heard you. Yes, I am going to speak to Yahweh as you have requested. And whatever be the word of Yahweh, I shall let you know it without hiding anything.”

They said to Jeremiah, “May Yahweh be a true and worthy witness against us if we do not act according to every word that Yahweh your God will say to us through you! Whether it be good or bad for us, we will obey Yahweh our God, to whom we are sending you; so it will be well with us for having obeyed the voice of Yahweh our God.”

Ten days later the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah. He then called Johan- an, son of Kareah and the army officers with him, and all the people from the least to the greatest; and said to them, “This is the word of Yahweh, God of Israel, to whom you sent me with your petition: If you wish to live peacefully in this land, I will build you up and not pull you down; I will plant you and not uproot you, for I will relent of the harm I did you.

You are afraid of the king of Babylon; but do not fear him—word of Yahweh—for I am with you to save you and rescue you from his hand.

I will put mercy in his heart so that he may have mercy on you and let you live in your own land.

But if you say: ‘No, we shall not live in this land,’ disobeying the voice of Yahweh your God, and if you say: ‘No, we shall go to Egypt where we shall no more have wars or hear the trumpet call, where we shall not be hungry for bread!’ Then hear the word of Yahweh, remnant of Judah! Yahweh God of Hosts and God of Israel speaks: ‘If you turn towards Egypt, to go there, and stay there, the sword you fear will strike you, there, in the land of Egypt; and famine, which you dread, will be yours there, in Egypt; and you will die. All those who turn towards Egypt, to enter and live there, will die; by sword, famine and pestilence. No one will escape or flee from the misfortune that I will bring upon them.’

This is what Yahweh God of Hosts and God of Israel says: “Just as my burning anger was poured out on the people of Jerusalem, so will my fury be poured out on you, when you go to Egypt. You will become a curse and a reproach; and you will never again see this place.”

That is what Yahweh has foretold, O remnant of Judah. Do not go to Egypt; be quite sure that I have warned you today. You risked your lives when you sent me to Yahweh your God, saying: 'Pray for us to Yahweh our God, and tell us all that Yahweh says; and we shall do it.' 21 I have told you today, though you still do not obey Yahweh your God in all that he told you, through me. 22 Be sure of this, it will be by the sword, famine and pestilence that you will die, in the place where you want to go and live.’

43 1 Jeremiah had hardly finished giving the message of Yahweh to the people—all that Yahweh had sent him to say—when Azariah son of Hoshiach, and Johanan son of Kariah, and all the arrogant men, said to Jeremiah, “You are lying! Yahweh our God did not send you to tell us not to go and settle in Egypt. 2 No, Baruch son of Neriah is prompting you to hand us over to the Chaldeans, either to be killed or deported to Babylon!”

4 So neither Johanan son of Kariah, nor the army officers, nor the people heeded Yahweh’s command to stay in the land of Judah. 5 Instead, Johanan and the army officers led away the remnant of the Jews, who had returned to the land of Judah, from the nations where they had been driven. 6 They also led away the men, women, children and the royal princesses—all those that Nebuzaradan, commander of the bodyguard, had left, in the care of Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, with Jeremiah, the prophet, and Baruch, son of Neriah. 7 So in defiance of Yahweh’s order they entered Egypt and arrived at Tahpanhes.

Jeremiah foretells the invasion of Egypt

8 There, at Tahpanhes the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah: “While the Jews are watching you, 9 take some large stones and bury them in clay in the brick terrace at the entrance to Pharaoh’s house at Tahpanhes 10 and then say to them: This is what Yahweh God of Hosts and God of Israel says: I am sending for my servant Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon; and he will set his throne over these stones that I have hidden here; and spread a royal canopy. 11 He shall come and strike the land of Egypt, bringing death to those destined to die; captivity, for those destined to be taken captive; sword, for those destined for the sword. 12 He will set fire to the temples of the Egyptian gods; these gods will be burned or carried away. As a shepherd wraps himself in a cloak, so will the king of Babylon wrap the land of Egypt about himself and depart in safety. 13 He will break the sacred pillars at Heliopolis and burn the temples of the gods in Egypt.”

Jeremiah’s last warnings

44 1 A word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews living in Egypt especially in the cities of Migdal, Tahpanhes and Memphis, as well as in the territory of Patros: 2 “You have seen all the disaster that I brought on Jerusalem and the towns of Judah. 3 These are no more than ruins without inhabitants because of the evil they have done. They have provoked my anger by offering incense to foreign gods that neither they nor their fathers knew.

4 I sent them my servants the prophets time and time again to tell them: ‘Do not do this abominable thing that I detest!’ 5 But they did not listen or pay attention; they did not turn away from their evil ways or give up worshiping strange gods. 6 Then the fury of my anger was loosed and blazed in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem, making them the desolate ruins they are today.

7 And now Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel asks you: Why do you bring such great harm on yourselves? Because of your deeds, every man, woman, child and infant will be taken from Judah; and you will be left without a remnant.

8 Why do you provoke my anger with the work of your hands? Why do you worship foreign gods in Egypt where you came to live? Surely you will decrease in number and be a curse and an object of reproach among all the nations?

9 Have you forgotten the wickedness of your fathers and the misdeeds of the kings of Judah and its princes; and the evil behavior of your wives in the land of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem?

10 So far they have had no contrition; and have not followed my law and my decrees that I set before you and your ancestors.”

11 Because of this, Yahweh God of Hosts and God of Israel warns you, “I am turning my face away from you, to bring disaster on you; and to completely destroy Judah.

12 The remnant of Judah, that chose to enter Egypt and live there, will all perish. They will be destroyed by the sword and famine; and become an object of horror and cursing, of condemnation and reproach. 13 I will punish those in Egypt as I punished Jerusalem; with the sword, famine and pestilence. 14 None of the remnant of Judah that came to Egypt will escape or flee, and return to Judah where you long to go and live."

Then all the men who knew their wives were offering incense to foreign gods and all the women, a great assembly, replied to Jeremiah in a louder voice. 16 "As for what you say in the name of Yahweh we will not listen; 17 we want to do all that we said we wanted to do: burn incense to the queen of heaven and pour out wine to her, as we did; we, and our fathers, our kings and princes, in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem. Then, we had our fill of bread and were prosperous; free from misfortune. 18 But since we stopped burning incense to the queen of heaven we have been in need of everything; and have perished by the sword and famine."

And the women added, "When we offered incense and poured libations to the queen of heaven, didn’t our husbands know that we made sacrificial cakes decorated with her image?"

Jeremiah then answered all the people, men and women, who had told him this: 21 "Is it not better that Yahweh remembered the incense you burned in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, you, your fathers, your kings, princes, and all the people?

Do you think it slipped his memory? 22 Yahweh could no longer bear the sight of your evil and abominable deeds. That is why your land has become the desolate waste that it is today!

23 All the misfortune that you are suffering today has happened because you burned incense; and sinned against Yahweh, by not obeying him or following his law, his instructions and his commands."

Jeremiah then addressed all the people, especially the women, "Listen to Yahweh’s message: 25 This is what Yahweh the God of Hosts and the God of Israel says: You and your wives think that what you say with your lips becomes an obligation you must fulfill. You say: ‘We are bound to keep the vows we have made to burn incense and pour out wine to the queen of heaven.’ Go ahead! Fulfill your vows and do what you promised! 26 Nevertheless listen, all you Jews living in Egypt, listen to what Yahweh says to you: By my own great name I swear—word of Yahweh—that throughout Egypt no one from Judah will invoke my name; no one will be left to say: ‘As the Lord Yahweh lives.’"

I am watching over them, but not for their good. All the people of Judah in Egypt will perish, by the sword and famine, until they are wiped out. 28 Only a few will escape the sword and return from Egypt to Judah; and the remnant who came to settle in Egypt will understand whose word comes true, theirs or mine! 29 And this is the sign that I will punish you in this place, says Yahweh, that you may know that my threatening words to you will be fulfilled: 30 I will hand over the Pharaoh Hophra, king of Egypt to his enemies who want to slay him, just as I let Zedekiah, king of Judah, be taken by his adversary, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, who was determined to kill him.

These are the words of Jeremiah the prophet, to Baruch, son of Neriah, who wrote on a scroll what Jeremiah dictated. It was in the fourth year of the reign of Jehoiakim son of Josias king of Judah when he said: 2 "There is a word of Yahweh for you, Baruch. Why do you complain: 3 ‘Alas for me! I am weary of sighing and I find no rest!’ Yahweh says: ‘When I am knocking down what I have built and pulling up what I planted, 5 why do you want great things for yourself? Don’t look for them! Yet, though I am about to send disaster on everyone—word of Yahweh—you will be safe wherever you go.”
Against Egypt

PROPHECIES AGAINST FOREIGN NATIONS

Against Egypt

1 These are Yahweh’s words addressed to the prophet Jeremiah concerning the nations.

2 Concerning Egypt, this is the message against the army of Pharaoh Neco, king of Egypt, which was defeated at Carchemish on the Euphrates by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah:

3 “Prepare shield and buckler, and march to battle!
4 Harness the horses.
Into your saddles, horsemen!
To your ranks, with your helmets on!
Polish your spears!
Put on your breastplates!

5 But what do I see?
With broken ranks they fall back; their warriors are routed.
They flee headlong without looking back, as terrors explode on every side.

In the north by the Euphrates, they stumble and fall.

8 Egypt surges like the Nile, like rivers of billowing waters.
She says, ‘I will rise and flood the earth; I will sweep cities and their people away.’

9 Charge, horses!
Drive madly, charioteers!
March on, warriors—men of Cush and Put, with your shields, men of Lydia, with your bows.

10 This is the day of Yahweh God of Hosts, a day of vengeance on his foes.
The sword devours, drunk with blood; for Yahweh Sabaoth holds a sacrifice in the north country by the Euphrates.

11 Go up to Gilead in search of balm, virgin daughter of Egypt.
You have taken medicines in vain, but for you there is no healing.

12 The nations have heard of your shame, the earth is filled with your cries; warrior has stumbled against warrior, and both have fallen together.”

Invasion of Egypt

13 This is the message Yahweh gave to the prophet Jeremiah about the coming of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, who was to attack Egypt:

14 “Announce this in Egypt, and proclaim it in Migdol, Memphis and Tahpanhes. Say to them:
Take your posts; prepare for the worst!
The sword has devoured your neighbors.

15 Why has Apis fled?
Your black bull god did not make a stand!
Why? Because Yahweh thrust him down

16 and caused him to stumble and fall.
Then they said to each other:
‘Get up, let us go back to our people, to the land of our birth, away from the devouring sword.’

17 Pharaoh, king of Egypt, will be called ‘The noisy one who lets his chance slip by.’

18 As surely as I live—says the King whose name is Yahweh Sabaoth—one will come who is like Tabor, like Carmel above the sea.

19 Pack your belongings ready for exile, you who live in Egypt, for Memphis will be laid waste, without inhabitants and desolate.

20 Egypt is a beautiful heifer, but a gadfly from the north has come upon her.

21 The mercenaries in her ranks are like fattened calves; but they too have fled falling to stand their ground, for the day of their calamity has come, the time of their punishment.

22 She makes a sound like a fleeing serpent, as her enemies advance in force, coming against her with axes, like loggers cutting down trees.

* 46.1 In Jeremiah as well as in the other prophets, we can read prophecies against foreign nations. The prophets lived in a specific time and their mission was to spread a new breed of people, more lucid, more responsible, and with a more interior faith, in a world which was falling apart. While the prestigious civilizations of Egypt and Babylon inhibited people and did not allow them to discover new values, the individualism of small nations led them to disappear. It was not Israel alone that had to pass through death, but all people; however, only Israel would rise up for a much greater destiny.
Against Moab

Concerning Moab. Yahweh the God of Israel, says this:

1 “Woe to Nebo, for it is laid waste. Kiriathaim is captured and disgraced; the fortress is shattered and abased.

2 No more will Moab be praised; men in Heshbon are plotting her downfall: ‘Let us put an end to that nation!’ You, too, Madmen, will be subdued; behind you stalks the sword.

3 Listen, a cry from Horonaim—a cry of ruin and destruction!

4 Moab is destroyed; her cry is heard as far as Zoar.

5 Her little ones go up the way to Luhith, weeping bitterly as they make the ascent. On the descent to Horonaim the cry of destruction is still heard.

6 Flee, run for your lives, like the wild asses in the desert.

7 Since you trusted in your deeds and riches, you also will be captured. Chemosh will go into exile, together with her priests and officials.

8 Upon every city the destroyer comes, and not a single city escapes. The valley is despoiled, the plain plundered, as Yahweh has declared.

9 Bury Moab for she has perished! Her cities will become desolate, with no inhabitant left.

10 A curse be on him who is lax in performing the work of Yahweh! A curse be on him who holds back his sword from shedding blood!

11 From his youth Moab has lived at ease resting complacently upon lees, never having gone into exile, never having been decanted; so she kept her own flavor as wine, her aroma remained the same.

12 And so the day will come—Yahweh says—when I will send decanters to her. They will empty her flasks and break her jars. 13 Then Moab will be ashamed of Chemosh, as Israel has been ashamed of Bethel, in which they put their trust.
14 How can you say, ‘We are heroes and valiant men of war?’ 15 Moab will be destroyed, her towns shuttered; her finest young men will be slaughtered—it is the King who speaks, whose name is Yahweh Sabaoth.

18 Come down from glory, sit on the parched ground, all you who dwell in Dibon; Moab’s destroyer has come against you, he has destroyed your stronghold.

19 Stand by the way and watch closely, you who dwell in Aroer; ask the men who flee, the women who escape, ask them what has happened.

20 Moab is shamed, oh, yes, destroyed; howl and cry out for her. Announce it by the Arnon that Moab is ruined.

21 Judgment has come on the tableland: on Holon, Jahzah and Mephaath, on Dibon, Nebo and Beth-diblathaim, on Kerioth and Bozrah, on all the cities of Moab, far and near. The horn of Moab is cut off and her arm broken—it is Yahweh who speaks.

22 Make her drunk! Because she magnified herself against Yahweh, Moab will wallow in her vomit and become a laughingstock in turn. Was not Israel a laughingstock to you? Was she found among thieves, that, whenever you speak of her, you wag your head?

23 Leave the cities and dwell in the rocky cliffs,

O inhabitants of Moab.

Learn from the dove that makes its nest out of reach on the edge of a cliff.

24 We have heard of the pride of Moab, of her loftiness and arrogance, of the haughtiness of her heart.

25 Yahweh says: I know her insolence; her words are false, her deeds are vain.

26 And so I wail for Moab; for the whole of Moab I moan; for the people of Kir-heres I mourn.

27 O vineyard of Sibmah, I weep for you more than for Jazer. Your branches spread as far as the sea, all the way to the sea of Jazer. The destroyer has fallen on your harvest and your vintage.

28 Jubilation is at an end in the fruit gardens of Moab; the vintage shout of joy is not heard, for I have drained the wine from the wine vats.

29 The cry of Heshbon and Elealeh is heard as far as Jahaz. From Zoar to Horonaim and Eglath-shelishiyah, their lament is heard, for even the waters of Nimrim have become desolate.

30 Yahweh says: I will bring to an end any one in Moab who offers sacrifice on the high place and burns incense to his gods.

31 And that is why my heart, like a flute, sobs for Moab, moans for the people of Kir-heres whose accumulated riches have all perished.

32 It is the King who speaks, whose name is Yahweh Sabaoth.

34 All you her neighbors, mourn for her, all you who knew her well; say, “How the mighty scepter is broken, the glorious rod!”

35 Yahweh says: I will bring to an end any one in Moab who offers sacrifice on the high place and burns incense to his gods.

37 Every head is shorn, every beard cut off; gashes are on their hands, sackcloth covers their loins.

38 There is nothing but lamentation on all the rooftops and in the public squares of Moab, for I have shattered her like a vessel that no one wants—says Yahweh.

39 What terror has seized Moab, what wailing! Oh, how she has turned back in shame! Moab has become a laughingstock and a horror to her neighbors.

40 For thus says Yahweh: Look, an eagle is swooping down, spreading its wings over Moab.

41 The towns will be captured, the strongholds seized.

42 The heart of Moab’s warriors on that day will be like the heart of a woman in travail.

43 Moab will be destroyed as a nation for setting itself up against Yahweh.

44 He who flees from terror will fall into the pit; he who climbs out of the pit will be caught in the snare; for I will let this happen to Moab in the year of her punishment—says Yahweh.

45 Fugitives stop in the shadow of Heshbon, for a fire has gone from the house of Sihon, burning Moab’s skull and her boast-ers’ crown.

46 Woe to you, Moab, people of Chemosh who suffer calamity!
Your sons are taken into exile, your daughters into captivity.
47 But in the days to come I will restore the fortunes of Moab—Yahweh declares.”

The judgment on Moab ends here.

Against Ammon

1 Concerning the Ammonites. Yahweh says this:

“Has Israel no sons?
Has she no heir?
Why then has Milcom disinherited Gad, why have his people settled in its cities?
2 But the days are coming—says Yahweh—when I will sound the battle alarm against Rabbah of the Ammonites.
It will become a heap of ruins, its villages destroyed by fire.
Then Israel will dispossess those who had dispossessed her —Yahweh says.
3 Wail, Heshbon, for the destroyer marches!
Howl, inhabitants of Rabbah!
Put on sackcloth, lament, run to and fro, gashing yourselves;
for Milcom goes into exile, along with his priests and officials.
4 Why boast of your valleys, your valleys flowing with fruit,
O faithless daughter, trusting in your riches and saying,
‘Who will dare attack me?’
5 Look, I will bring terror upon you;
you will be driven away,
everyone making his own way,
with no one to gather the fugitives.
6 Yet I will restore the fortunes of the Ammonites later on.
It is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks.”

Against Edom

7 Concerning Edom, this is what Yahweh says:

“Is there no more wisdom left in Teman?
Has counsel perished from the prudent?
Has their understanding decayed?
8 Flee or hide in dark caves, you inhabitants of Dedan, for I will bring destruction upon Esau
when I come to punish him.
9 If grape pickers worked in your vineyard, would they not leave gleanings behind?
If thieves came to you at night, would they not steal only as much as they want?

10 But I will strip Esau bare;
his hiding places I will uncover.
His relatives, children and neighbors will perish, and he will be no more.
11 Leave your widows and orphans behind, and rest, assured I will keep them alive.”

12 For thus says Yahweh: “Even those not sentenced to drink the cup must drink
it. Why then should you go unpunished?
You, too, shall drink!
13 By my own self have I sworn, says Yahweh: Bozrah shall become an object of horror and disgrace, a desolation and a curse. All her towns and cities shall be ruins forever.”

14 I have received a message from Yahweh, a herald has been sent among the nations: “Assemble! Prepare for battle!
March against these people!
15 Look, I will reduce you among the nations, make you despised among humankind.
16 The terror that you inspire and your pride have deceived you, you who live in the crags, on the rocky heights of the hill.
Though you build your nest as high as the eagle’s,
I will bring you down from there—it is Yahweh who speaks.
17 Edom will become a horror, shocking every passerby who will catch his breath at the sight of her wounds.
As when Sodom, Gomorrah, and their neighboring towns were overthrown, no one shall dwell or visit there—thus Yahweh proclaims.
18 As when a lion comes from the thicket of Jordan to a rich feeding ground, so I, in an instant, will drive Edom from its land.
Whom will I choose for this task? Who is like me and can call me to account? What shepherd can stand against me?
20 Therefore hear Yahweh’s plan against Edom, against those who live in Teman.
They will be dragged away, even the smallest sheep; their pasture will be destroyed on account of them.
21 The earth will tremble at the sound of their fall; to the Sea of Reeds their cry will resound.
22 Look! An eagle will soar and spread its wings over Bozrah. On that day the heart of Edom’s warriors will pound like the heart of a woman in labor.”
About the Syrian cities

23 Message concerning Damascus:
“Hamath and Arpad are confused, having heard bad news. Their hearts are faint with fear like the waters of a troubled sea. 24 Damascus has become feeble and turns to flee in panic, gripped by anguish and pain, like a woman in travail. 25 How the renowned city is forsaken, the city of delight! 26 Her young men will fall in the streets, her soldiers will be silenced on that day. Yahweh declares: 27 I will set fire to the walls of Damascus; it will consume Ben-Hadad’s fortresses.”

Against the Arabic tribes

28 A message concerning Kedar and the kingdoms of Hazor, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon attacked. This is what Yahweh says:

“Arise and attack Kedar, destroy the people of the east! 29 Their tents and flocks will be taken away, their goods and camels carried off as men shout, ‘Terror on every side!’ 30 Flee, dwell in deep caves, you who live in Hazor—says Yahweh. For Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has devised a plot against you. 31 Arise and attack a nation at ease, which lives in confidence, a nation that has neither bars nor gates, a people that dwells alone complacently. 32 Their camels will become plunder, their large herds will be spoils; I will scatter to the winds those who are in far-off places; I will bring disaster on them from every side. 33 Hazor will be a jackal’s haunt, forever a wasteland uninhabited by humans, unvisited by anyone.”

Against Elam

34 This is the word of Yahweh against Elam, which came to the prophet Jeremiah at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah, king of Judah. 35 Yahweh Sabaoth says this:

“See, I will break the bow of Elam, the mainstay of their might. 36 I will bring the four winds against her from the four quarters of the heavens, and there will be no nation on earth to which Elam’s exiles will not be dispersed. 37 I will shatter Elam before their foes, before those who seek their lives. I will bring disaster upon them, even my fierce anger. I will pursue them with the sword until I have made an end of them. 38 I will set my throne in Elam and destroy her king and officials. 39 Yet I will restore the fortunes of Elam in the days to come—says Yahweh.”

Against Babylon

This is the word Yahweh spoke against Babylon and the land of the Chaldeans, through the prophet Jeremiah:

2 “Do not hide this, but announce among the nations that Babylon is taken, Bel confounded, Merodach dismayed; her images are put to shame, her idols destroyed. 3 A people from the north marches against her, set to turn her into a wasteland abandoned by both people and beast. 4 In those days—declares Yahweh—the people of Israel and Judah will come in tears to seek their God Yahweh. 5 Their faces turned toward Zion, they will ask the way to it. They will come and say, ‘Let us join ourselves to Yahweh in an everlasting Covenant never to be forgotten.’ 6 My people were lost sheep misled by their shepherds and left to roam on the mountains. They wandered from hill to hill and lost the way to their fold. 7 They were devoured by enemies who chanced upon them and said, ‘We have no guilt. This is their due for they sinned against Yahweh, their true shepherd and hope of their ancestors.’ 8 Flee from Babylon, leave the land of the Chaldeans, be like the rams that lead the flock! 9 For I will stir up nations from the north to march against Babylon. Their arrows are like those of skilled warriors, that never return empty-handed; and Babylon will be captured.
Chaldea will be plundered, and the plunderers will be filled.

Rejoice as long as you can, you plunderers of my inheritance! Frolic like heifers threshing grain, and neigh like stallions!

But your mother will be disgraced; she will be the least of the nations, laid waste and a desert.

Yahweh’s fury will leave her desolate, an empty solitude, uninhabited. Every passerby will be horrified at the sight of the wounds of Babylon.

Take your posts around the city, all you who bend the bow. Shoot at her, spare no arrows, for great is her iniquity.

Raise the war cry! Now she surrenders! Her walls are torn down, her towers fallen. Since this is Yahweh’s vengeance, take revenge on her; do to her as she has done to others.

Cut off the sower from Babylon, and the reaper with his sickle at harvest time.

Escape from the oppressor’s sword; let everyone return to his own people, let everyone flee to his own land.

Israel was a straying sheep which lions pursued. First to devour her was the Assyrian; and the last to crush her bones was Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon.

Therefore Yahweh, God of Israel, says: I will punish the king of Babylon and his land, as once I punished the king of Assyria.

But I will return Israel to her fold, to feed on Bashan and Carmel and on Mount Ephraim and Gilead, till she has her fill.

In those days, Yahweh says, a search will be made for Israel’s guilt, but none will be found, and for the sins of Judah, and none will be found; for I will forgive the remnant whose lives I have spared.

Attack the land of Merathaim, and those who live in Pekod; pursue and kill them, says Yahweh; do all as I have commanded. Battle alarm is in the land, the alarm of great destruction. How broken and shattered is the hammer of the whole earth! How horrifying has Babylon become among the nations!

You ensnared yourself, O Babylon, and were caught before you knew it; you were found out and seized because you challenged Yahweh. Yahweh has opened his armory, brought out the arms of his fury, for Yahweh Sabaoth has work to do in the land of Chaldea.

Come against her from every side; break open her granaries; pile her up like heaps of grain, destroy her, leaving no remnant.

Slay all her oxen, down to the slaughterhouse with them! Woe to them! Their day has come, the time for their chastisement.

Listen! Fugitives and refugees from the land of Babylon have come to announce in Zion Yahweh’s vengeance for his temple.

Surround Babylon with archers, and leave her no way of escape. Repay her as her deeds deserve; do to her as she has done to others. Give her the due for her defiance of Yahweh, the Holy One of Israel.

That day, her warriors, and young men as well, will fall and lie in silence.

I am against you, arrogant one! It is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks—the time to punish you has come.

The arrogant one will stumble; no one will help her up. In her towns I will kindle a fire that will consume everything around.

Thus says Yahweh Sabaoth: The people of Israel are oppressed, and the people of Judah as well, for their captors hold them fast and refuse to let them go.

But strong is their avenger, Yahweh Sabaoth is his name. He will fight for their cause and succeed; he will give them rest in their land, but unrest to those who live in Babylon.

A sword upon the Chaldeans, upon the people of Babylon, her princes and sages!

A sword upon her false prophets: may they lose their wits! A sword upon her warriors: may they tremble in terror!

A sword upon her mercenaries: may they become women! A sword upon her treasures: may they be plundered!

A sword upon her waters: may they dry up! For hers is a land of idols that go mad with terrors.

So, desert beasts will live there; there, will the owl and ostrich dwell. From generation to generation, the land will never be inhabited again. As when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah with their neighbors, nobody will live there any more, no one will make his home there again.

A strong people is coming from the north, a mighty nation. Stirred up from the far ends of the earth are men armed with bows and spears who are cruel and without mercy. They sound like the roaring sea as they ride on galloping steeds. They come in battle formation against you, daughter of Babylon.

43 Your king has heard news of them, and his hands hang limp. Anguish has gripped him, and pain as that of a woman in travail.

44 As a lion comes from the thicket of Jordan to a rich feeding ground, so I, in an instant, will drive them off, and whom I choose I will establish there. For who is like me? And who can call me to account? What shepherd can stand against me?

45 Therefore hear Yahweh’s plans against Babylon, against the land of the Chaldeans: they will be dragged away, even the smallest sheep; their pasture will be destroyed on account of them.

46 The earth quakes at the cry ‘Babylon is captured!’ Among the nations the outcry is heard.”

The Lord against Babylon

51 1 This is what Yahweh says: “I will stir up a devastating wind against Babylon and the Chaldeans.

2 I will send foreigners to Babylon to winnow her and lay waste her land. On the day of her affliction they will besiege her from all sides.

4 They will fall fatally wounded in the streets of Babylon.

5 For Israel and Judah have not been forgotten by their God, Yahweh Sabaoth, though their land is guilt-ridden before the Holy One of Israel.

6 Save your lives, flee from Babylon! Partake not of her punishment; this is a time of Yahweh’s vengeance, a time of his recompense to her.

7 Babylon was a golden cup in Yahweh’s hand, a cup which made the whole earth drunk.

The nations drank her wine, and they have become mad.

8 Babylon’s fall is sudden. Wait for her, wail! Bring balm for her wounds, if she could yet be healed.

9 ‘We have tried to heal Babylon, but she is beyond healing. Let us go back, each to his own land, and leave her to her judgment which rises up to heaven.’

10 Yahweh has defended our rights, come, let us declare in Zion what our God Yahweh has done.

11 Sharpen the arrows, take up the shields! Yahweh has aroused Media’s kings in his resolve to destroy Babylon. This is Yahweh’s vengeance, vengeance for his temple.

12 Raise a flag on the walls of Babylon, and make the watch strong. Post guards, prepare an ambush! Yahweh will carry out his purpose, his words against the people of Babylon.

13 You who dwell by mighty waters, you who are rich in treasures, this is your end; the time for you to be cut off has come.

14 Yahweh Sabaoth has sworn: Surely I will fill you with troops, thick as a swarm of locusts; they will exult over you and raise the vintage shout.

Hymn

15 He made the earth by his power, founded the world by his wisdom, spread out the sky by his discernment.

16 When he thunders, the heaven roars; from the earth he makes clouds rise; he sends lightning with the rain, and from his vaults brings out the wind.

17 Everyone stand stupefied at this; artisans blush, for the idols they made have no life and are a fraud.

18 They are worthless, ridiculous; when judgment comes they will perish.

19 The portion of Jacob is not like them, for he is the creator of all; Yahweh Sabaoth is his name, and his heritage is Israel.

The hammer of Yahweh

20 You were my hammer, my weapon of war. With you I wrecked nations, with you I demolished kingdoms.

21 With you I wrecked horse and rider, chariot and charioteer. With you I wrecked man and woman, youth and aged, young man and maiden.

23 With you I wrecked shepherd and flock, farmer and draft animal, rulers and officials.

24 But now I will repay Babylon and those who dwell in Chaldea for the wrong they did to Zion. 25 I am against you, ravaging mountain, ravager of the whole earth! It is Yahweh who speaks.

I will lay my hands on you, roll you down over the crags, and make you a parched, eroded mountain. 26 No cornerstone will be taken from you, or foundation stone; forever shall you be a ruins, Yahweh says.

27 Raise a signal on the earth, among the nations blow the trumpet. Prepare the nations for war, summon the kingdoms to battle Ararat, Minni and Ashkenaz. Marshal a great force against her; bring up the cavalry, swarming and bristling.

28 Prepare the nations to battle her, the Medes with their kings, their governors and officials, all the countries they rule.

29 The earth trembles and writhes as Yahweh carries out his process of turning the land of Babylon into a desert where no one lives. 30 Her warriors have ceased to fight; they cower in their strongholds. Their strength is dried up, their homes are burned and their gates broken.

31 One after another, couriers run to the king, bringing news that his entire city is fallen: 32 The fords have been seized, the fortresses set afire, and all the warriors terrified. 33 Yahweh Sabaoth, God of Israel, says: Babylon is like a threshing floor at the time it is trodden. A little while, and the time of the harvest grain will come for her.”

34 The people of Zion said: ‘Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, has consumed and routed me. He has left me as an empty vessel. Like a dragon he has swallowed me, and filled his belly; he cast me out of my Eden.

35 May the violence done to my flesh be upon Babylon, says the city of Zion. May my blood be upon the Chaldeans,’ says Jerusalem.

36 Yahweh says to his people: “See now, I defend your cause and avenge you. I will dry up her sea and drain her springs. 37 Babylon shall become a heap of ruins, a haunt of jackals, an object of horror and derision, a place where no one lives.

38 Her people will roar like lions; they will growl like lion cubs. 39 But while they are feverish, I will prepare a drink for them and make them drunk till they grow drowsy and fall into eternal sleep, never to wake up again.

40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like goats and rams.

41 How has Babylon been seized, the glory of the world taken captive! How has Babylon become a horror among nations!

42 The sea has risen over Babylon and covered her with its roaring waves.

43 Her cities have become desolate, a land of drought and a desert, a land where no one dwells, a land through which no one travels.

44 I will punish Bel in Babylon and make him belch out what he devoured. No longer will nations stream to him. The wall of Babylon has fallen.

45 My people, come out of her! Run for your lives! Run from Yahweh’s fierce anger.

46 Do not lose heart or be afraid when rumors are heard, when rumors come year after year, rumors of violence and disaster, intrigues of ruler against ruler.

47 The time will surely come when I will punish the idols of Babylon; her land will be put to shame when all around her lie slain. 48 Then heaven and earth and all therein will rejoice over Babylon, for out of the north the destroyers will come to attack her—it is Yahweh who speaks.

49 Babylon must fall for the slain of Israel, just as the slain of all the earth have fallen because of Babylon.

50 You who have escaped the sword, leave, and do not linger. Remember Yahweh from this far country and think of Jerusalem:

filling God’s will against Judah, Babylon would also head towards its own collapse: fifty years later, it would be destroyed by the Persians.

Jeremiah urges us not to fear the great powers of today’s world. In the past, great nations emerged and tried to destroy Christianity which had become complacent and asleep; revolutions and persecutions destroyed the fragile structures in which Christians had placed their trust. But before the next generation, another giant appears and overcomes the first, while the Church, seemingly despoiled and poorer, rises with renewed strength.

When we finish reading Jeremiah, we can turn to the 40th chapter of Isaiah: the small land of Judah will come back to life while the great empires of Assyria and Babylon will leave behind nothing but ruins.

51. ‘We have been put to shame, dishonor has covered our faces; because aliens have entered the holy places of Yahweh’s house.’

52. But days will come—Yahweh declares—when I will punish her idols, the wounded will groan all over her land. 53. Though Babylon mount skyward, though she fortify her heights, the mere threat of the destroyers I send is enough to make her terrified.

54. Listen! Loud cries from Babylon, the sound of terrible destruction from the land of the Chaldeans! 55. That is Yahweh laying waste the city, silencing her monstrous din. Well may her waves roar and their clamor be heard afar! 56. Upon Babylon the destroyer has come; her warriors are captured, their bows are broken.

For Yahweh is a God who rewards, who repays her enemies in full. 57. I will make her rulers and sages drunk, her governors, her officers and warriors; they will sleep the sleep of death and never awake, says the King whose name is Yahweh Sabaoth.

58. Yahweh Sabaoth says this: The wide ramparts of Babylon will be razed to the ground, her high gates burned down. The people’s labor will go to naught; the nation’s toil will end in fire.”

The written oracle thrown into the river

59. This is the message Jeremiah gave to Seraiah, son of Neriah who is Mahseiah’s son, when he went to Babylon at the command of Zedekiah, who was then in the fourth year of his reign as king of Judah.

60. Jeremiah had written on a scroll the entire disaster that was to befall Babylon—all these words recorded here.

61. Jeremiah then said to Seraiah, “When you get to Babylon, see that you read all these words aloud. 62. Then say: ‘Yahweh, you, yourself, have proclaimed that this place will be destroyed, that neither people nor beast will ever live here again, for it will remain desolate forever.’

63. When you finish reading this scroll, tie a stone to it and throw it into the Euphrates. 64. Then say: “So will Babylon sink and rise no more because of the disaster I will bring upon her.”

Thus far the words of Jeremiah.

The fall of Jerusalem

52. 1 Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother, Hamutal by name, was the daughter of Jeremiah from Libnah.

2 He did evil in the sight of Yahweh just as Jehoiakim had done. 3 All that happened in Jerusalem and Judah came about because of Yahweh’s anger until the day when he drove them out of his sight.

Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon; 4 so in the ninth year of Zedekiah’s reign, on the tenth day of the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon marched with his entire army and laid siege to Jerusalem. They camped outside the city and built siege works all around it. 5 The city was under siege up to the eleventh year of Zedekiah.

6 On the ninth day of the fourth month, famine became a serious problem in the city, and throughout the land there was no bread for the people. 7 When the city was opened by a breach in the wall, the Judean army fled. They left the city by night through the gate between the two walls near the king’s garden. While the Chaldeans were still surrounding the city they fled towards the Arabah. 8 The Chaldeans followed in hot pursuit of king Zedekiah. They caught up with him in the plains of Jericho. All his army deserted and scattered.

9 The Chaldeans seized the king and led him away to Riblah in the territory of Hamath; and, there, the king of Babylon passed sentence on him. There, at Riblah, the king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah in his presence; and also killed all the officials of Judah. 10 He then put out the eyes of Zedekiah, bound him with a double bronze chain and took him to Babylon. 11 He was imprisoned there in the house of the guards until the day of his death.

12 On the tenth day of the fifth month in the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan commander of the bodyguard and servant of the king of Babylon, entered Jerusalem and set fire to the house of Yahweh and the royal palace, as well as to all the houses in Jerusalem.
13 He also burned every important building.
14 The Chaldean army under the commander of the bodyguard completely demolished all the walls around Jerusalem.
15 Nebuzaradan, commander of the bodyguard, carried off into exile some of the poorest among the people, the remnant of Jews left in the city, and those who had deserted to the king of Babylon, and the remainder of the artisans.
16 But Nebuzaradan left behind those among the very poor who were capable of working in vineyards and cultivating the soil.
17 The Chaldeans broke into pieces the bronze pillars, the stands and the bronze Sea in the house of Yahweh, and carried off all this bronze to Babylon.
18 They also took the pots, shovels, wick trimmers, the spoons and all the bronze articles used in the temple service.
19 The commander of the bodyguard took the basins, censers, sprinkling bowls, pots, lamp stands, ladles and bowls—all that was made of gold or silver.
20 The two pillars, the Sea and the twelve bronze bulls underneath it, the movable stands which King Solomon had made for the house of Yahweh—all this bronze was of an immeasurable weight.
21 The pillars were each eighteen cubits high with a circumference of twelve cubits. Each had a thickness of four fingers and was hollow.
22 On the top of each pillar was a bronze capital five cubits high, and above this, around the capital, was filigree work, with pomegranates in bronze.
23 Ninety-six pomegranates hung down; and in all the filigree decoration there was a total of a hundred pomegranates.
24 The commander of the bodyguard took captive Seraiah, the chief priest, and Zephaniah, the next priest in rank, as well as three doorkeepers.
25 He also took from those in the city a eunuch in command of the fighting men, seven personal advisers to the king, who were discovered in the city,
26 the commander’s secretary, responsible for military conscription, and sixty of his men, who were found in the city. Nebuzaradan took all these away to the king of Babylon at Riblah.
27 There at Riblah, in the territory of Hamath, the king of Babylon had them put to death. So Judah was taken captive and taken away from its own land.
28 This is the number of the population deported by Nebuchadnezzar: in the seventh year 3,023 Jews;
29 in the 18th year of Nebuchadnezzar, 832 people from Jerusalem;
30 in the twenty-third year 745 Jews deported by Nebuzaradan, commander of the bodyguard—in all 4,600 people.
31 On the 25th day of the 12th month, in the 37th year of the exile of Jehoiakin, king of Judah, Evil-merodach, king of Babylon, in the year he came to the throne, pardoned Jehoiakin king of Judah, and released him from prison.
32 He spoke kindly to him and gave him more honorable treatment than the other kings who were with him in Babylon.
33 Jehoiakin put aside his prisoner’s garment; and for the rest of his life ate at the king’s table.
34 Day by day for as long as he lived he was maintained by the king of Babylon.
